Residents still hope for signal

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Neighbors in Antioch's Beach Grove Road and Route 59 area have been working for years to get a traffic signal at the intersection. Increased development in the area is causing increased traffic, according to one resident.

"There is new development off of Beach Grove Road, Heron Harbor, and more homes on the east side of Route 59," said Dorothy Lowell. "Now, we can't get out."

Lowell lives on the west side of Route 59 and was very active several years ago. Petitions, letters to governmental officials, and Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) actually See SIGNAL page A10

Three times a charm for 'Fiddler on the Roof'

MARY FOLEY

PM&L Theater in Antioch is proud to present their season opener, "Fiddler on the Roof," beginning on Sept. 15. This exciting musical will star Ken Smouse in the role of Tevye.

Smouse, one of the founders of the PM&L Theater, is very well acquainted with the role. This will be third time for both Smouse and theater. PM&L presented "Fiddler" in 1975 and 1985.

"He has been joking that this time he is going to get it right," quipped Betty Smouse, also of the theater. On a more serious note, she said, "Fiddler on the Roof" is one of the all-time favorites of both the group and the audience."

Smouse came to Antioch in 1956 as a teacher at Antioch Community High School. He was head of the English Department and founded the theater group at the school. In 1986, Smouse co-founded The Bowen Park Theater and Opera Company at the Jack Benny Center for Performing Arts in Waukegan.

In 1991, Smouse was awarded the Jack Benny Arts and Humanities award for his outstanding contributions. He also received the Lake County Arts Council's Excellence in Arts award.

"The theater is his love," said Smouse. Directing "Fiddler" will be Donna Badtke of Genoa City. See THEATER page A10

Death row inmate claims innocence

If the governor overturns the conviction and execution date, "I would be a very rich man," former Spring Grove resident Charles Albanese said from the Menard Multiple Correctional Facility where he's been held for the past 14 years.

Albanese's attorney filed a petition for clemency, his last resort to avoid execution set for Sept. 20.

Just 11 days before he's set to die by way of lethal injection, Albanese granted an interview and maintains he's not guilty of the family poisonings he was convicted of in the early '80s.

In 1981, as part owner of the Allied Die Casting trophy manufacturing company in McHenry, prosecutors state Albanese wanted to gain total control of the business and that was the reason he poisoned his father and brother. His mother in law and wife's grandmother were also poisoned, and became ill and died after a family dinner where they were handed drinks in the yard, according to prosecutors.

His clemency hearing will be held Sept. 15.—by TINA SWIECH

Antioch High takes meetings on the road

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

The Antioch Community High School Board of Education is taking its meetings on the road. In an effort to serve the communities of Lake Villa and Lindenhurst, business meetings will be held on a rotating basis in all communities.

"We've talked to the respective mayors and they have indicated we can hold our meetings at the various village halls," said ACHS Superintendent Dennis Hockney. Hockney is pleased with the board's action.

"I am pleased the board has made this decision. We serve three communities. Having the board meeting in the three communities provides a greater opportunity for the board to interact with all of its constituents."

The ACHS Board holds two meetings a month; one is an informal discussion and information meeting. These meetings will continue to be held at the ACHS Board Room at the school on the first Thursday of every month at 6 p.m. The second meeting of the month is the business meeting at which board action is taken. The business meetings will be held at various locations starting at 7:30 p.m.

The first "away meeting" will Oct. 19 at the Lindenhurst Village Hall. Other meetings scheduled for Lindenhurst include Jan. 18, April 18, and July 18.

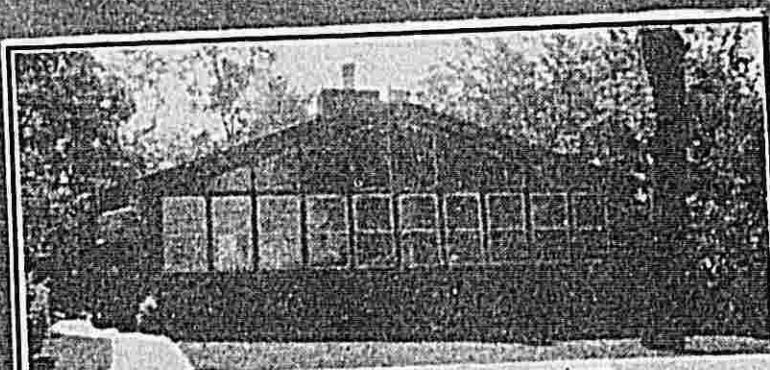

In the Lake Villa Village Hall, meetings are scheduled for Nov. 16, Feb. 15, May 16, and Aug. 15.

Several hundred people passed through the Fox Waterway Agency's new facility last Saturday as part of the Agency's 10-year anniversary and open house.

Among the dignitaries were state Rep. Bob Churchill (R-62), state Rep. Dick Klemm (R-32), state Rep. Ann Hughes (R-63), and state Rep. Cal Skinner (R-64).

A dedication and commemorative ceremony was held at 5 p.m. Bruce Bossow, the only original director remaining on the board, described the Agency's beginning, "We started with nothing," and expressed awe and appreciation at the progress made in the 10 years.

Director Bossow presented to the audience two plaques. The John Soffiotti plaque, named in honor of the Agency's first chairman, lists 65 people who "have given generously of their time, skills and energy to make possible the protection and improvement of this great natural resource."

A second plaque, the George Thompson plaque named in honor of the Agency's first treasurer and director for 10 years was presented "in appreciation of the countless hours and dedication the Agency board members have graciously given to protect and improve the Chain O' Lakes and Fox River Waterways."

The second plaque lists the names of all the individuals who have served on the board. In addition, a State Certificate was presented to George Thompson from Senator Klemm on behalf of his work and dedication to the fish and wildlife community.

Plaques of appreciation were also presented to former Directors Judy Martini, George Thompson and Carl Woerner who had retired from the board in the last year.

Representative Churchill gave a short presentation on the history of the Agency and the need for this continued existence. "I believed then that if something wasn't done, the Chain O' Lakes would turn into a swamp." He praised the efforts of John Soffiotti and his ability to work through any problems. He also praised state Sen. Jack Schaeffer, noting, "He was truly the father of this Agency."

On display at the celebration were a number of pictures noting the Agency's past and current projects and events. Don Roseboom from the State Water Survey was present along with Don Lutyens of American Excelsior Company.

A map depicting the over 100 completed or proposed projects was on view. On hand were both the Lake and McHenry Co. Sheriff's marine patrols as well as the Coast Guard Auxiliary. Boat trips to view the Agency's current dredging site were provided by the Lake County Sheriff Marine Unit under the direction of Captain Willie Smith.

Werchek: 'Vested interest in ACHS'

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

Antioch Community High School Board of Education candidate Kathy Werchek of Antioch feels she has a vested interest in the future of the school. She has three children attending high school and two more on their way.

"I have a long term vested interest in ACHS," said Werchek. "ACHS has had their share of problems and I have many concerns about its future."

Werchek has lived in Antioch for eight years. She has five sons and is very involved with area youth. Both Werchek and her husband coach Lindenhurst soccer and they are hoping for a foster child placement.

"We are currently in the process of opening our home to foster children," said Werchek.

For six years, Werchek was a general contractor. She feels, now she has the time to devote to the school board.

"I feel I have the time and energy to give to the school," she explained.

Werchek is hoping to create a positive place of learning at the high school. "I would like to see the high school as a good positive experience to all children," she said. She wants to develop an atmosphere of fairness and respect at the school.

"Which is everyone's responsibility," Werchek added.

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

Boy Scout Troop 92 has received the okay from the Antioch Village Board to sell pumpkins this Halloween season. The money generated through the sales will go to a good cause.

"We have been doing this for three years going on four years," said Troop Leader Paul Green.

"The proceeds from this goes to the boys for summer camp."

The pumpkin sales will be held on the weekends, starting Sept. 30. Other dates include Oct. 1, 14, 21 and 28.

One concern of village trustees was other non-permitted sales of pumpkins near the Boy Scout location. Apparently, these pumpkin dealers undercut the Boy Scout prices.

"Please make us aware of any 'gypsy' pumpkin sales near you," said Trustee Wayne Foresta to Green.

Green told the board the group would be selling pumpkins at two locations. "We do have one other selling site, but it is not in the village," said Green.

The village board waived the permitting fees. The village sale location will be in front of Antioch Auto Parts on Route 173.

"We wish you success at both locations," said Mayor Marilyn Shineflug.

Brook Bike-A-Thon to be held

The Third Annual Ride for Bill Brook Bike-A-Thon has been slated for Saturday, Sept. 23. The event, sponsored by the Antioch Jaycees and Antioch Schwinn Cyclery will be held to benefit the Lake County Unit of the American Cancer Society.

The event is held in memory of William E. Brook, who contracted and died of cancer in 1992. Brook was a lifelong resident of Antioch as well as a community leader.

The Bike-A-Thon will be held rain or shine, and everyone is invited to participate. There is a $5 registration fee for this scenic ride which starts at the park and proceeds on a seven-mile route that returns riders back to Centennial Park.

Area businesses are encouraged to organize teams to ride. Refreshments will be available at all rest stops and prizes will be awarded based on the amount of money a participant raises.

The Bike-A-Thon is open to all ages. The sponsors, Antioch Jaycees and Antioch Schwinn Cyclery, are asking for donations of both cash and merchandise. If you wish to contribute, call Al Robbins or Teri Chipman at 395-3111.

Antioch Library to offer reading program

The Antioch Public Library District will have a preschool reading program and school age activity hour starting Sept. 18 through Dec. 9. There are lots of activities planned for 3 through 10 years old. Movies will be shown once a month on Saturday at 2 p.m. Registration will be taken through Sept. 15, or until classes are filled. Registration must be in person. A signer will be made available to children who need communication in sign language, call ahead, as the library needs a three week notice. For more information, call 395-0874.

Commission reports on medical services in town

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

The provider of medical services for Antioch was the subject of the Economic Development Commission report to the Antioch Village Board. Leader of the commission, Tom O'Malley, traced the history of the proposed plan to bring more medical services to town.

"The highlight has been the successful completion of the program," said O'Malley.

Northern Illinois Medical Center (NIMC) will be bringing medical services to Antioch. The group has purchased property on the east side of Antioch.

"It should be opened by this time next year," said O'Malley.

According to O'Malley, the EDC looked at eight facilities initially. "Three, Lake Forest Hospital, Good Shepherd Hospital and Northern Illinois Medical Center showed an interest," said O'Malley.

NIMC found a 6-acre parcel on the east side of Main Street. "NIMC came to an agreement with the property owners," said O'Malley.

He told the board Dr. Bill Dam of Fox Lake helped to find and secure the location. "That really caused this project to accelerate," explained O'Malley. He said, at this time, it is not definite what services the center will provide.

The next project of the Antioch EDC will be to secure a developer or corporation to build a regional or professional type building. "We are looking forward to that," said O'Malley.

Crafters wanted

Woodcrest Subdivision is looking for a few good crafters for their first annual Craft, Yard and Bake Sale to be held on Oct. 6, 7, and 8. The event will be held at the old Channel Lake School in Antioch Township, off of Lake Street. For more information please call 395-2988 or 395-6606.

Meet the tax man

Cliff Houghton, Antioch Township Tax Assessor will be on hand Sept. 19 at the September meeting of United Homeowners Association of Unincorporated Antioch (UHAUA). The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. at St. Stephen's Church. The public is welcome to attend.

Country Round-up

The Antioch Township Republican Club will be holding "An Antioch Country Round-up" on Saturday, Sept. 16. The dinner and dancing event begins at 6 p.m. and will be held at the VFW Hall on North Avenue. Cost per ticket is $20.

Welcome to Emmons

Antioch Rotary Club welcomed new teachers. With Emmons School Superintendent Matt Tabar and Principal Cyndy Vandrush, far right, are new teachers Susan Geldner and Janet Felgenhauer.

Storage sheds available

Let Antioch Community High School carpentry students build you a storage shed on your own property. The program will extend during the first semester of the school year. Two shed sizes are available. All sheds have gambrel roofs, treated wood floors and will be put together at your site by students. The 10- by 12-foot model costs $1,000 and the 10- by 16-foot model costs $1,100. Both have door openings of 70 inches. For more information or to order a shed call 395-1421 and ask for Mr. Kasuboski.

No school

There will be no school for ACHS students on Sept. 20. This is an institute day. However, Madrigal practice will be held at 7 p.m. on Sept. 20 in the auditorium.

Open house

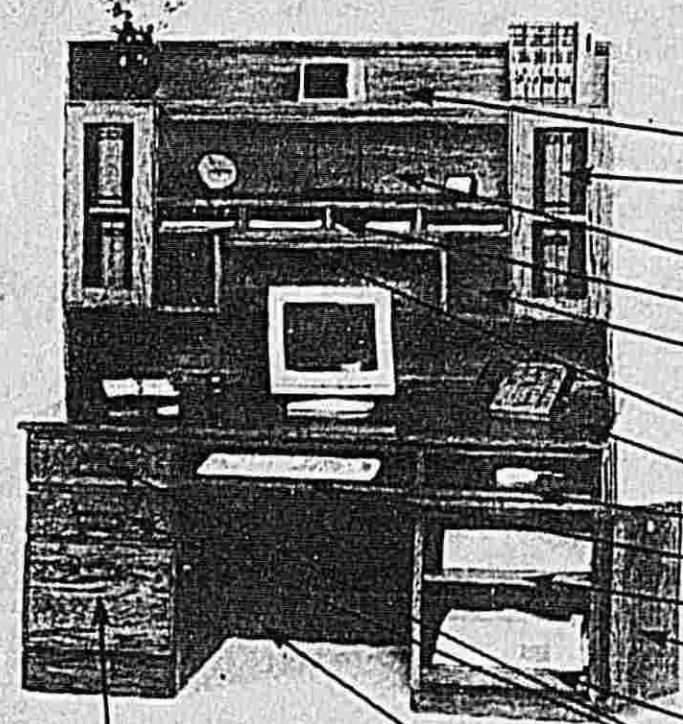

ACHS will hold a back-to-school/open house on Sept. 14. The event begins at 7 p.m.

New honor society officers

The National Honor Society officers for ACHS are Tracy Virag, president; William Bell, vice president; Elizabeth Wegner, treasurer; Melissa Becker, secretary; and Alyson Gantar, service secretary. Last year, the society sponsored numerous fund raisers and donated, in excess of 2,800 hours of community service work.

Police BEAT

Persons charged with a crime are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ANTIOCH

Party gets out of control

Ronald J. Brandt and Andrew T. Sassano, both 20 of Antioch, were charged with consumption of alcohol by a minor after police arrived at their party on Sept. 2. After receiving a call regarding excessive noise, police found open bottles and several juveniles at an Antioch residence. Both Brandt and Sassano were released on bond.

Resisting and battery

Caroline E. Murphy, 33 of Antioch was arrested and charged with resisting arrest and battery on Sept. 3. When police arrived after a call, a man answered the door with red marks, abrasions, and vomit over him. He told officers Murphy struck him with such force, he vomited. Police attempted to handcuff Murphy, and she refused to cooperate without a struggle. She was taken to Lake County Jail and released on a $5,000 cash bond after she refused a recognizance bond.

Possession of marijuana

Dennis E. Dombrowski, 18 of Twin Lakes, Wisconsin and Joshua A. Shannon, 18 of Bristol, Wisconsin, were arrested for possession of marijuana on Aug. 28. Police detected the odor of marijuana after finding the young men parked in a field in Windmill Creek Subdivision. After being charged, both were released on bond with a Sept. 27 court date in Grayslake.

Scott R. Schamer, 17, of Antioch was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana on Sept. 9. Schamer was allegedly walking down North Avenue at 1:15 a.m. when police stopped him to check for a curfew violation. When Schamer opened his fanny pack to remove his identification, police observed a silver pipe which contained a green leafy substance. Schamer was released on bond.

Man insists he be charged

Donald G. Galloway, 36, of Antioch "insisted" he be charged with disorderly conduct and telephone harassment after police read the charges to him. Police said Galloway was intoxicated at the time.

The problem began when Galloway arrived at the Antioch Jewel/Osco and told employees he was a "DEA" agent there to pick up a shoplifter. When told there were no shoplifters, Galloway joined two companions and left.

But, the shoplifters must have still be on his mind, because then he allegedly called the store to talk some more. At this point, the Antioch Police were called and they visited Galloway at his home.

Despite a warning by police, Galloway called the store two more times. When police arrived to arrest Galloway, a Lake County Sheriff's Department deputy was already at the residence to discuss the calls Galloway also made to the Sheriff's Department.

After Galloway was taken to the Antioch Police Department, police attempted to book him. According to the report, the officer carefully explained the charges to Galloway, who was allegedly extremely intoxicated at this point. After hearing the charges, Galloway "insisted he be charged."

Galloway was released on bond and has an October 2 Waukegan court date.

Antioch Library Friends selling Entertainment Book '96

For those of you who eat out frequently, whether it be fast food or fine dining, attend sporting events, concerts or the movies, travel, get your clothes dry cleaned, your car washed, or rent videos—have we got the book for you.

The Entertainment Book '96 is a publication loaded with discounts: 2 for 1 dinners, 50 percent off when dining alone, fast food deals, discounts on hotels, RV rentals, rental cars, airline tickets, miniature golf, and the list goes on and on.

Now the Antioch Library Friends thought this would be a great fund-raiser for the library so they are offering this money-saving publication for a mere $35! The book is good from Nov. 1 to Oct. 31, 1996 and contains discounts for local restaurants like Antioch's own Hogan's as well as Mundelein's fine Dover Straits and Chicago's very own Spirit of Chicago. Plus once you purchase this entertainment extravaganza for yourself, you are entitled to purchase, at a discounted rate, publications valid for a wide variety of other cities. These make great Christmas presents for relatives, business associates, or family members residing in other cities across the country and even Canada. The book is broken down into several different sections for easy use: dining, travel, arts and leisure, national values and local services. You can grab two Burger King Whoppers for the price of one or dine at Walker Brothers for half price, either way you only have to use the book a couple of times and it pays for itself. We once selected a fabulous Radisson Hotel in Florida and got a gorgeous room overlooking the gulf for about $69 a night. What a deal! This is a great way to try new expensive restaurants at bargain prices. So not only is this a great way to save money, it's also a very beneficial way to support the Antioch Library. The Entertainment Book '96 will be on sale at the Annual Book Sale being held at the Library on Oct. 6 and 7, or you can reserve yours now by calling Gail at 395-6588.

Crafters wanted

Boy those folks over at Oakland Grade School are on the ball. They already have a Craft Fair/Pancake Breakfast with Santa scheduled for Dec. 2. Wow, are they prepared! They are planning a day long family event which will include Jim Lienhardt, the principal himself, flipping his famous pancakes. Now, I heard from a very reliable source that Lienhardt does this on occasion during the school year and kids are lined up around the block waiting to get a taste of his culinary specialty. Rumor has it that even his wife turns out for these events to enjoy some of that tasty cooking she never seems to get exposed to at home!

During the Craft Fair/Pancake Breakfast there will be pictures with Santa, a Santa's Secret Shoppe set up for kids 12 years old and under (moms and dads watch out for those treasures under that tree Christmas morning), and craft booths with a variety of fun and festive items to buy—pending they get any crafters via this column. So any of you out there who have that special knack or talent for producing retailable treasures that the rest of us envy, give Patti a call at 395-2158 and she will set you up with your booth and any other pertinent information you may need.

You got to eat

During one of our recent thunderstorms, two of the kids and myself huddled in the basement under the ping pong table as I tried desperately to make light of the crashing noises that were going on around us. After the storm subsided, we returned upstairs to survey the damages and found nothing major, although the umbrella and table made an attractive addition to our pool.

After removing the submerged items, I realized it was time to retrieve the two older girls from the school bus so into the Pringlemobile we hopped. As I was backing down the driveway, I observed a small but steady wisp of smoke rising above the tree tops, nothing really billowing, just a consistent white trail emitting from the foliage. A tree branch had broken and fallen across an electrical wire. I figured a call to Commonwealth Edison was in order, but seeing as it was still raining and I didn't want the girls walking home in the elements, I proceeded to call from my car phone.

A pleasant voice answered, which I immediately established to be a recording, and gave me my options: if I was calling about a current power outage or a previous outage press one on my touch tone phone. I thought, "Who the heck cares about a previous power outage" and, well, the power never actually did go out, so I figured I didn't qualify to press one. I was given a non-emergency number to call but I sort of figured smoke spitting out from a wire rated as an emergency. Therefore, I was instructed to hold and an operator would be with me shortly. The voice, still sounding pleasant, advised that if I did choose to remain on the line, due to the heavy volume of calls at this time, my call would be answered in nine and a half minutes. Nine and a half minutes—the whole town of Antioch could have caught fire and burned to the ground in nine and a half minutes.

I looked at the smoke still spewing from the charred branch, and said to myself, "At $10 a minute, there is no way I am going to hold on my car phone for nine and a half minutes for the next available operator." I judged the wind velocity, figured the deluge we just experienced soaked the forest to the core, and came to the conclusion that our heavily wooded acreage wasn't in any imperative danger.

So when the girls got off the bus, I did what every mother concerned for the safety of her children would do: we went to lunch! Now, I'm happy to report that when we returned home an hour and a half later, all was well and when I re-dialed Commonwealth Edison from my kitchen phone, the wait was only four minutes. The tree trimmers arrived within the hour and all was cut and trimmed away. Upon finishing all their cropping and pruning, not only did they leave all the branches laying on the mosquito infested ground for me to pick up, they left our tree with a haircut similar to that of Lyle Lovett's. Thank, guys! And so goes another "Jingle From Pringle"...don't forget to call 395-6364.

CLC annual career fair set for Oct. 6

Business and service professionals representing more than 100 different careers will discuss jobs and career opportunities at the 22nd annual career fair from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. Oct. 6 at the College of Lake County physical education center, Building 7, 19351 W. Washington St., Grayslake.

The fair is intended for anyone interested in choosing a career, thinking about a career change or interested in learning about other careers. The fair will especially benefit high school or college students who will have the opportunity to talk informally with representatives from business and industry to learn about job requirements and professional growth opportunities.

The career fair is free and open to the general public. For information call Frank Nickels, CLC counselor, at 223-6601, ext. 2353.

A Safe Place receives grant

State Senator Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) announced that A Safe Place in Waukegan has been awarded $284,521 in state support. This is a portion of the $11.3 million that has been awarded to 50 different shelter agencies across the state.

"It is encouraging to see that the total for grants across the state has increased $1.6 million from last year's figure," said Geo-Karis. "I cannot think of a better use of state funds than to provide a safe environment for women and children who are escaping a dangerous situation. I am glad to see this financial support of A Safe Place and the women and children of the 31st district."

Public Notice Proposed Issuance of Air Pollution Control Permit to Thelen Sand & Gravel, Inc., Antioch, Illinois

Thelen Sand & Gravel, Inc. has requested a federally enforceable state operating permit for its concrete batch and crushing plant located at 28955 West Route #173, Antioch, Illinois. Thelen Sand & Gravel, Inc. currently has a state operating permit. The company voluntarily requested federally enforceable limitations that will require it to operate as a non-major source.

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (Agency) has reviewed the permit application and has concluded that the application complies with applicable state and federal air pollution control laws and rules, including the Illinois Environmental Protection Act, the Federal Clean Air Act, and Illinois' Rules for Air Pollution, 35 Ill. Adm. Code: Subtitle B.

The proposed permit limits the operating rates of this plant and requires Thelen Sand & Gravel, Inc. to comply with applicable state and federal regulations. The permit includes monitoring, and record keeping and reporting requirements to demonstrate that control measures are being carried out. The proposed permit would enable these requirements to be enforced by the USEPA, as well as the Agency. These requirements will assure that the plant will be operated as a non-major source.

Persons wanting more information may review the Agency's project summary and draft permit and the permit application at the Agency's offices at 1701 S. First Avenue, Maywood, IL and 1340 North Ninth St., Springfield, IL. Copies of the documents will be made available upon request.

Comments are requested on the proposed issuance of this permit. Comments must be postmarked by midnight October 31, 1995. If sufficient interest is expressed in this permit, a hearing may be held. Requests for information, comments, and questions should be directed to Ernie Kierbach, Division of Air Pollution Control, Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, P.O. Box 19276, Springfield, Illinois 62794-9276, phone 217/782-2113, TDD phone number 217/782-9143.

Views On[®] Dental Health

By Brian Gniadek, D.D.S.

FLUORIDE FACTS

Dental literature is replete with facts on the effectiveness of fluoride in preventing tooth decay. How does it work? Sugars in the mouth set up a favorable environment for the growth and development of germs. These germs produce acids that cause decay and leave behind deposits that injure the gums. One of the big defenses against this process is fluoride which builds up the resistance of teeth to these acids. It should be in your child's drinking water so it can be absorbed in his growing teeth; it should also be in your child's toothpaste, and applied regularly on his teeth by the family dentist.

Chicago (the first big city to fluoridate its water supply) reports that tooth decay has been cut in half among its school children, and credits fluoride for this improvement. As an added plus, Chicago parents are saving an estimated $20 million a year in dental bills.

In areas where the water is not fluoridated, children's teeth can be substantially protected against cavities by fluoride in drop or tablet form.

No special treatment for violent unions

I have introduced legislation to restore federal prohibitions against union violence by closing loopholes in the law that currently exempt union officials from prosecution under federal anti-extortion statutes. My bill is entitled the Freedom from Union Violence Act.

Union-related violence is reported almost daily in this country. But because a loophole in the federal law in effect gives union officials immunity from prosecution under federal anti-extortion statutes, these crimes typically go unpunished.

Our bill would end this injustice by removing the loophole so perpetrators of union violence no longer get special treatment.

The bill would restore the 1946 Hobbs Anti-Extortion Act to its original meaning, making union officials who incite violence subject to prosecution under federal anti-extortion laws.

The Hobbs Act was enacted in part to check an epidemic of union violence in the 1930s and 1940s. However, a U.S. Supreme Court decision in 1973 ruled that union officials were immune from prosecution if union violence was "used to gain legitimate union objectives, such as service or higher wages."

The ruling obviously did not reflect the intent of Congress in writing the Hobbs Act.

As a result of the ruling, it is practically impossible under federal anti-extortion laws to punish union officials who incite violence.

An opinion survey in 1993 revealed that more than 91 percent of Americans favored ending the federal union violence exemption.

According to the National Institute for the Labor Relations Research (NILRR), more than 7,800 incidents of labor violence have been reported in the nation's media since 1975.

It has been reported that union violence has taken the lives of 181 Americans since 1975, while 445 employees, managers and business owners have been beaten or assaulted.

As a result of the 1973 Supreme Court decision, and the continuing inaction by Congress, federal law enforcement officials are often forced to sit and watch while union extremists attack the person or property of American citizens while pursuing "legitimate union objectives."

Without the aid of federal law enforcement officials, state and local authorities often find themselves outmanned and outgunned in their efforts to restrain violent union militants. If and when violent militants are apprehended, local government officials are often reluctant to prosecute, fearing they will be targets for political reprisals by powerful union officials.

I'm convinced passage of my legislation would restore the weight of federal law to fight unlawful union violence.

Still time to register for late-starting classes at CLC

Although the fall semester has begun at the College of Lake County, students can still register for several late-starting credit classes that begin the week of Oct. 23 at the Grayslake campus and at off-campus locations. Courses are offered during days, evenings and weekends, and registration is now in progress.

A partial list of courses offered includes word processing, IBM PC/MS DOS, Lotus 1-2-3, graphics and desktop publishing, introduction to AutoCAD, food service sanitation, real estate, speech, sociology and typing. For a complete listing of late-starting classes, call C-O-L-L-E-G-E. Additionally, several late-starting adult and continuing education classes are offered throughout the semester.

The CLC tuition is $44 per credit hour for in-district residents and $193.99 for out-of-district residents. Students who live out of CLC's district but work in-district are eligible for in-district tuition.

Traffic concerns stall industry

ALEC JUNG

Staff Reporter

Traffic concerns prompted the Lake Villa Zoning Board to require Vulcan Materials Inc. to provide another traffic study before the board makes a recommendation to the village board.

"Our biggest problem is traffic," said Chairman Jerry Coia.

Coia said Vulcan did the traffic study in August when there was no school traffic. He said the commission feels the traffic would be higher in the school months.

"We felt with the schools in session and with morning and afternoon peaks, it would be much more congested," Coia said.

Coia added the company officials felt the traffic study was appropriate.

The company projects about 350 truck trips from the proposed site on Wall Street. That number comes to about 15 trips per hour.

The site is located on 30 acres east of Rte. 83 in the Larson Industrial Park. The company wishes to annex into the village and use 10 acres of the property for a storage facility of the limestone chip material.

Vulcan would use the railroad tracks to transport the material and put the limestone chip on trucks for use in Lake County sites.

The board was concerned with the trucks entering and leaving at a location near a school bus stop. Coia said the board appears to support a traffic signal at the location if it is warranted by the state.

He said Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) has the authority and will make the final decision.

The company is expected to come back to the board with another traffic study on Sept. 21 at 7 p.m. The village board is yet to consider the annexation request.

COURAGE gets ready for active fall

ALEC JUNG

Staff Reporter

A community-based, anti-gang organization is finalizing plans for an active fall filled with activities.

Community Outreach Uniting Residents Against Gang Environment (COURAGE) is putting together two months packed with fun, informative events, and community service.

On Sept. 16th the COURAGE volunteers will help out Agape Chiropractic with KID Care ID from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Lake Villa.

The Youth Group meets on Sept. 21 from 6:15 to 7:15 to assist the Lindenhurst Park District with the Haunted Trail preparations.

A Rollerblading event is scheduled for Sept. 23 at Linden Plaza from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m.

A movie night is planned at the Gurnee Cinema Sept. 28 from 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. with a $4 admission charge. The group may be back later than 8 p.m.

The Youth Group will spend time with the seniors when they visit Victory Lakes from 6:30 to 8 p.m. for a game night Oct. 5.

A lock-in is tentatively planned from 8 p.m. to 7 a.m. on Oct. 13 at Hooper School. The event still needs to be finalized.

A major fund raiser for the organization, a Mile of Quarters, is slated for Oct. 21 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Linden Plaza. The organization is hoping to get a mile of quarters to raise funds for trips and leadership seminars.

COURAGE is comprised of residents from Antioch, Grayslake, Lake Villa and Lindenhurst who take a zero tolerance approach to gang activity.

The general meeting on Oct. 25 boasts a panel discussion with Louise Loud of the juvenile court system and a representative from Antioch, Grayslake, Lake Villa and Lindenhurst police departments.

The organization will go Haunted House Hopping from 6:30 to 10 p.m. on Oct. 26. They also will participate in the Haunted Howl on Oct. 27 from 4 to 10 p.m. which is sponsored by Downtown Antioch Community Development.

Finally, October closes with a scare as COURAGE volunteers assist the Lindenhurst Park District in the Haunted Trail at the McDonalds Woods.

Geo-Karis to speak at police banquet

State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion), a strong police supporter for years, will be speaking to officers and members of the Illinois Police Association at their annual banquet on Sept. 16.

"I have always considered crime control to be foremost in my legislative efforts," said Sen. Geo-Karis. "And I am pleased that Thomas Madoles, president of the Illinois Police Association, and Dale Gulbrantson, Executive Secretary/Treasurer, asked me to speak at the banquet. This organization has a long and proud tradition of serving the people of Illinois and I am glad to be a part of their event."

The Illinois Police Association was first organized in 1901. Sen. Geo-Karis' speech will be a part of their 1995 weekend conference held at the Ramada Inn in Rosemont.

New models premiere at Autober Feast

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

Planning on buying a new car this year? Want an up front and personal view of the new 1996 models? Just browsing? Then, Antioch's Autober Feast is the place to go.

"This will be the preview of the 1996 models," said Antioch Downtown Director Claude LeMere. "Our fall show is the most exciting. The dealers are eager to get rid of the 1995s."

The event, which begins on Friday, Sept. 22, promises to be even better than the last. Six area car dealers will be on hand to offer the best of their lots.

Held on Toft Street, the event will continue through Saturday at 5 p.m.

Special financing will be available and three Antioch Banks will be able to help car buyers with on the spot financing.

Participating in the event will be Lyons and Ryan Ford, Raymond Chevy/Olds, Antioch Dodge, Pittman Pontiac, Pederson GMC and Lake Villa Chrysler.

Sale hours are Friday, Sept. 22 from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturday, Sept. 23 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Signal

made the problem worse according to neighbors.

"They had an overhead caution light on Route 59," explained Lowell. The current signals include small individual flashing red lights on Beach Grove Road and individual flashing yellow signals going each way on Route 59. "With the old overhead signal, at least you could see it at night," complained Lowell.

IDOT had sent a counter out in July of 1991. In a letter to Senator Paul Simon, who had attempted to intervene in behalf of the Antioch Township residents, IDOT Secretary Kirk Brown wrote and said the existing stop sign control was adequate based on review and evaluation.

In addition, Brown promised IDOT would continue to monitor the intersection.

According to one resident, Jean O'Dell, IDOT found there just wasn't enough traffic. But, one of the problems she saw with the count was that it took place only during the weekdays.

"The trouble is," said O'Dell, "when they put the counter in, they don't work weekends. You should see the intersection on Saturday."

O'Dell believes there have been at least six accidents this year at the location. "It is very bad coming east," she said. "Drivers must pull out into the road to see the traffic."

Lowell says the residents are no longer actively seeking help on the intersection. "We just got tired," she said. However, they are still hopeful an updated study will help their cause.

YMCA hosts open house

Hastings Lake YMCA will join YMCAs throughout Chicagoland in hosting a free family open house on Sunday, Oct. 8 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The open house, which will feature workouts, demonstrations, tours and games, mark the culmination of a three-week fall membership campaign entitled "Generation Y."

For complete information on the open house, YMCA membership or to schedule a facility tour call the Hastings Lake YMCA, 356-4006.

"The Slogan 'Generation Y' supports the YMCA's family focus," says Jim Scherer, executive director of Hastings Lake YMCA. "With our innovative programs for people of all ages, the YMCA is a great place for the whole family. We invite the community to visit the Y and learn about all the fun, healthy activities we offer."

The membership drive, which runs from Sept. 18 to Oct. 8, feature $50 off the price of a single or family annual membership.

Membership benefits include reduced rates for the Y's health and fitness programs, social activities and child care, as well as access to the Y's pool, exercise room and basketball courts.

Hastings Lake YMCA is one of the 33 centers that comprise YMCA of Metropolitan Chicago. Through innovative programs the YMCA responds to the diverse needs that face families today. Currently, the YMCA is the leading provider of licensed child care and single room occupancy facilities in Chicagoland.

Durney's third place paces ACHS runners

A combination of newcomers and veterans and spreading some talent throughout the race helped three girls cross country teams gain top 10 finishes at Wauconda.

Stevenson led area teams with a fourth-place finish and 164 points. Johnsburg ended eighth with 221 points and Antioch was ninth with 246 points in the 27-team field.

For the second time in a week, Megan Durney of Antioch gained a top four spot in the girls race. She was third. At the Mundelein Invitational earlier in the week, Durney finished in sixth place.

"Megan is getting closer each week to the South girl," Antioch coach Dick Harland said of Durney, a senior. It was Durney's best time on the Lakewood Forest Preserve course.

Alice Melhuish won the meet with a 11:05. "It was a good confidence builder for the younger girls," Harland described the meet.

Beth Lennon and Lauren Burke also contributed to the 246-point Antioch effort with 12:15 and 13:12 efforts, each.

Stevenson High's Tracy Denaro, a freshman, ended with an eighth-place finish of 11:47. Tiffany Bennett had an 11:49 for ninth place, a senior.

"Tracey's running keeps the seniors strong and pushing forward," SHS Coach Deb Stewart said.

Ann Blong, a senior, had a 12:34; Cary Bildoeau had a 12:39 and Brittany Bennett, Tiffany's sister, had a 12:45.

"We're a contender for the conference. It is early now, but I think we will do well," Stewart said.

Johnsburg was eighth with 221 points, using some newcomers.

"I left it up to them. This is a good chance for them to see the runners they will be up against at regional and sectional," JHS coach Deb Kellum said.

Sarah Geier was 11th and Ritta Marotta was 18th in 12:03, both sophomores.

Johnsburg plans on contending in the Northwest Suburban Conference with Marian Central.

Grayslake had 329 points for 13th place. Soph Joanne Reiland, a transfer from Warren High, led the way with a 12:59 and 16th place.

"That was the highlight for us. She is a talented girl and is improving every day," Coach Joel Peebles said.

Other area entrants: Lake Zurich was 14th with 390 points; Warren was 20th with 516; Mundelein 21st at 541; Grant 22d at 564; Wauconda 23d at 614 and Round Lake was last.

DeRue leads Antioch runners

Antioch cross country runners finished in 13th place during the 25-team Wauconda Invite.

Brian DeRue led the Sequoits with a 35th place finish with an Antioch best time of 17:32. Ryan Dunn was second for Antioch with a 18:54. Ken Bratton and Ken Fasana were other top runners for the Sequoits.

"Brian was seven or eight seconds better than his Wednesday time," said Antioch Coach Dave Judson.

On the cross country team for the first time is senior Matt Fasana. He is generally known as a hurdler. "He is still figuring out what cross country is all about," Judson mused.

Stevenson led all area teams with a fourth-place finish. Warren was seventh, Grayslake 18th, Grant 22nd, Round Lake 23rd and Mundelein 24th.

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

Getting the first win of the season almost always results in a big sigh of relief, and the Antioch Sequoits sighed in a big way by downing Whitney Young of Chicago 40-6 in a non-conference contest.

The win came after two consecutive losses to North Suburban Conference favorites Libertyville and Stevenson.

"I guess you can say this is the start of a new season for us. We got the real tough ones out of the way," commented Antioch Coach Del Pechauer. "After last week's hammering in Stevenson (67-20), this gives our kids some confidence."

A number factors of the game worked well for the Sequoits, but Pechauer credited his junior-dominated offensive line for coming through.

"We played well both offensively and defensively," Pechauer said. "Our line knew where they were going and who they were blocking. I think they are growing up a little bit."

Grabbing the kudos in the trenches were juniors Dan Wiegel, Brian Dembinski, Jason Ultes and Jeff Bringer. Sophomore Kyle Wisniewski and senior Mario Venezia also contributed down low.

The line's blocking allowed fullback John Migalla to rush for three touchdowns. He captured 79 yards on the ground for the Sequoits.

"We stopped them on the first three plays, and then we drove down the field.

Offensively, they never stopped us," Pechauer noted.

Antioch displayed a diverse rushing attack as Jim Groth gained 79 yards and two touchdowns, quarterback Walter Martens ran for 75 yards on the option, and Ajredin Elez rounded out the 311-yard rushing effort with 64 yards.

Martens also succeeded in an 86-yard aerial assault, which included launching a 27-yard touchdown reception to wide receiver Andy Davis, who grabbed another 39-yard pass.

Martens also found Groth for a 20-yard reception during a pivotal third and 15 yards to go play.

On the defensive side of the ball, the Sequoits welcomed back linebacker Jason Breen, who sat out the last game and a half. Breen snatched his first-ever interception, contributed with two tackles and two assists, and was credited with a knockdown.

"It's nice to have him back. I like to have him on the field," Pechauer said.

Overall, the defense allowed 60 yards rushing and three first downs. The only mistake was a 36-yard pass that got away for Whitney Young's only score.

Saturday, Antioch hosts Zion-Benton in a key NSC showdown at 1 p.m.

"They have a lot of speed and have good size," Pechauer remarked about Zion-Benton. "We're going to try to identify their defense early, so we can set up our blocking."

Let the new season begin.

Antioch Vikings defend title with opening victory

A 25-year tradition of teaching fundamental football continued to pay dividends as the Antioch Viking football heavyweights began to defend their 1995 championship title with a 37-0 victory over the Mundelein Mustangs.

An opening eight-play drive to the Mundelein 25-yardline was thwarted by a fumble which brought out the hungry Viking defense. Three plays later, the defensive line of Ron Nissan, Chris Vanderkooy and Brian Harris collapsed the Mustangs and blocked their punt.

On the next play, a perfectly executed option by quarterback Brandon Clutts with key blocks by Scott Hodina and Conrad Atkins resulted in the first of three first-half touchdowns by Quinn Gooch.

After pinning the Mustangs deep in their territory, conerback Brandon Franke stripped a Mundelein running back and scampered 15 yards for a Viking score.

Gooch kicked his third extra point. George Girten provided the long snaps.

seven-play opening drive, culminating with a 25-yard touchdown by Girten behind precision blocking by Matt Green, Vanderkooy, Lucas Denoma, and Ryan Corcilus.

The relentless defensive attack lead by Brian Harris, Brian Griffin and Gene Meleytschuk continued to stifle the Mustangs.

The Vikings host Grayslake Sunday at home at the Antioch High School field at 2:30 p.m.

BLITZ

The Lindenhurst Blitz (U-19) opened their season at home against Trevian Green with a convincing 3-0 victory.

The scoring opened with Becca Bleyer sending in a crossing shot that deflected off a Trevian defender into the net. Allison Earl was perched right in front of the net causing the distraction that forced the error.

Bleyer scored moments later on a pass from Sandra Lorang to make it 2-0. Bleyer then returned the favor by threading a pass to Lorang who punched it home for a 3-0 Blitz lead.

There was no scoring in the second half, but the Blitz had 12 shots on goals while the Lindenhurst defense (Elly Elfering, Nicki Kral, Katie Hoskins and Stacey Alberts) allowing only four balls to reach goalkeeper Melissa Helbig.

Contributing big to the total team effort were Carrie Gofron, Jill Danoma, Amie Carlberg, Susan Woodruff, and Nichole Wright.

ROCKERS

The Lindenhurst Rockers (U-11) girls traveling soccer team visited Lake Forest and came away with a 2-2 tie.

Kelly O'Connell scored first with Tanya Earl assisting. The Rockers then had to come from behind with Annie Heath scoring late assisted by Theresa Gosciniak.

Strong midfield play came from Kristina Gopp and Erica Hall. The defense was led by Beth Fries, Erin Peacy, and Robyn Mortenson.

ROCKETS

The Lindenhurst Rockets (U-10) started their fall season with a 6-0 victory over the Highland Park Giants.

Callie Check started the scoring with an unassisted goal. Check scored minutes later with assists going to Melissa Coby and Courtney Ksioszk. Tina Washburn finished the first half with her first goal of the game. The goal was assisted by Pam Staton.

The Rockets opened the second half with 2 goals from Pam Staton. Her first goal was assisted by Calla Myslinski and her second goal was assisted by Check. Washburn finished the scoring with her second goal of the game. Megan Placko assisted on the goal.

Strong defensive play by Becky McBrady, Lori Knupp, Michelle Marturano and Kristen Gagne kept Highland Park from setting up any good scoring opportunities. Other players contributing to the victory were Kacie Anderson, Elizabeth Martin, Elizabeth Willding and Annie Hovey.

POWER

The Power (Girls U-15) opened their regular season with a 4-3 come from behind victory over the Buffalo Grove Cyclones.

The Power spotted the Cyclones a 3-1 lead before scoring 3 unanswered goals in the second half to earn the victory.

The first Power goal came on a passing play from Jamie Wismer to Jourdan Phillips to Teri LaRoche, who broke through the Cyclone defense and pushed the ball past their charging goalkeeper.

Lindenhurst then scored two goals within a one minute span in the second half. Nicci Estep took a pass from a throw-in and chipped a shot over the goalkeeper from about 30 yards out. The second goal came when Katie Anderson took a high crossing pass from Wismer and headed the ball into the upper left hand corner.

The final goal came off a direct kick play with Tracie Foster driving a shot from 35 yards out. The ball got by the Cyclone keeper hitting the upright, but Wismer was in position to drive home the rebound.

Also playing well for the Power were Jenny Porter and Sarah Richardson.

Royal Eagles gain 2-2 tie; Turbos drop two games

ROYAL EAGLES

The U12 Royal Eagles" boys soccer club paid the Hononegah Lions of Rockford a visit and came away with a 2-2 tie.

Brian Walsh started the scoring with a blast from the right side, unassisted. Later in the first half, Tommy Woodruff out ran the Lions defense to score assisted by Kaleb Barrett.

Standouts were, David Calvert, David Gustafson, Taylor Groth, Christian Chebny, Matt Boller, Michael Cutro, Ramesh Kumar, Ryan Jordan, and tom Chilcote.

TURBOS

The Lindenhurst Turbos (boys U-13) started out the weekend of soccer games with the bad news that one of their key strikers, Jason Adams, was lost for the season with a knee injury. The Turbos dropped a 3-1 contest to Lisle Stingers. The Turbos came out strong in the first half, clearly outplaying the Stingers with their shooting and mid-field play.

The Stingers came out strong in the second half and hit for 3 goals before the Turbos answered with one of their own by Matt Peterson, assisted by Michael Wheeler.

It was a similar story when the Turbos hosted the Wheatland Warriors and lost 1-0.

The Turbos dominated the first half with strong mid-field play from Kieran Moran, Adam Richter, Chris Cole and Andy Murphy. Even though the Turbos played well in the second half, they were unable to score.

Antioch spikers skin Wildcats in NSC opener

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

At first glance, the visiting Libertyville volleyball team looked towering, but the Antioch spikers played near flawless volleyball to upset Libertyville 15-11, 15-6 in the North Suburban Conference opener for both teams.

The Sequoits had been struggling to begin the season, and things did not look that much better when Antioch players gazed up at four 6-footers behind the Libertyville net before the match.

But the Lady Sequoits shortened Libertyville's height advantage with superb play.

"Awesome!" was how Erin O'Connell described the feeling of overcoming Libertyville's height leverage.

"We were looking at their height and were little intimidated, but we overcame that by playing really aggressive," said O'Connell, Antioch's tallest player at 5-10. "We don't have the size, but I think we have the power."

Coach Gwen Varney said the key to victory was playing error free.

"What can I say? We hardly made any errors. Everybody played well," Varney said.

In both matches, Antioch's Carrie Kowalczyk opened play with screaming line-drive serves. She gave Antioch the early 2-0 lead in game one and a 4-0 advantage in game 2.

Both teams battled point for point in game one. Libertyville's 6-4 giant Jessica Parsons gave Libertyville a temporary 7-5 lead with a dink over the net. Antioch's Carrie Gofron made a diving dig to secure the point which tied the game at 8 all. Libertyville never led again after that point.

O'Connell combined a stuff and a block for the 9-8 advantage and it was all Antioch from that point on. Gofron made several other key digs and Jeanna Miller had a big block for the 11-9 lead. O'Connell finished the game with a kill.

"We've got to play really good defense," Varney pointed out. "It doesn't matter how hard you hit the ball. It matters where it goes."

Antioch forced Libertyville to play catch-up in game two by beginning with a 6-0 lead. The Lady Sequoits responded to most every shot Libertyville threw at them, forcing the Wildcats to make errors.

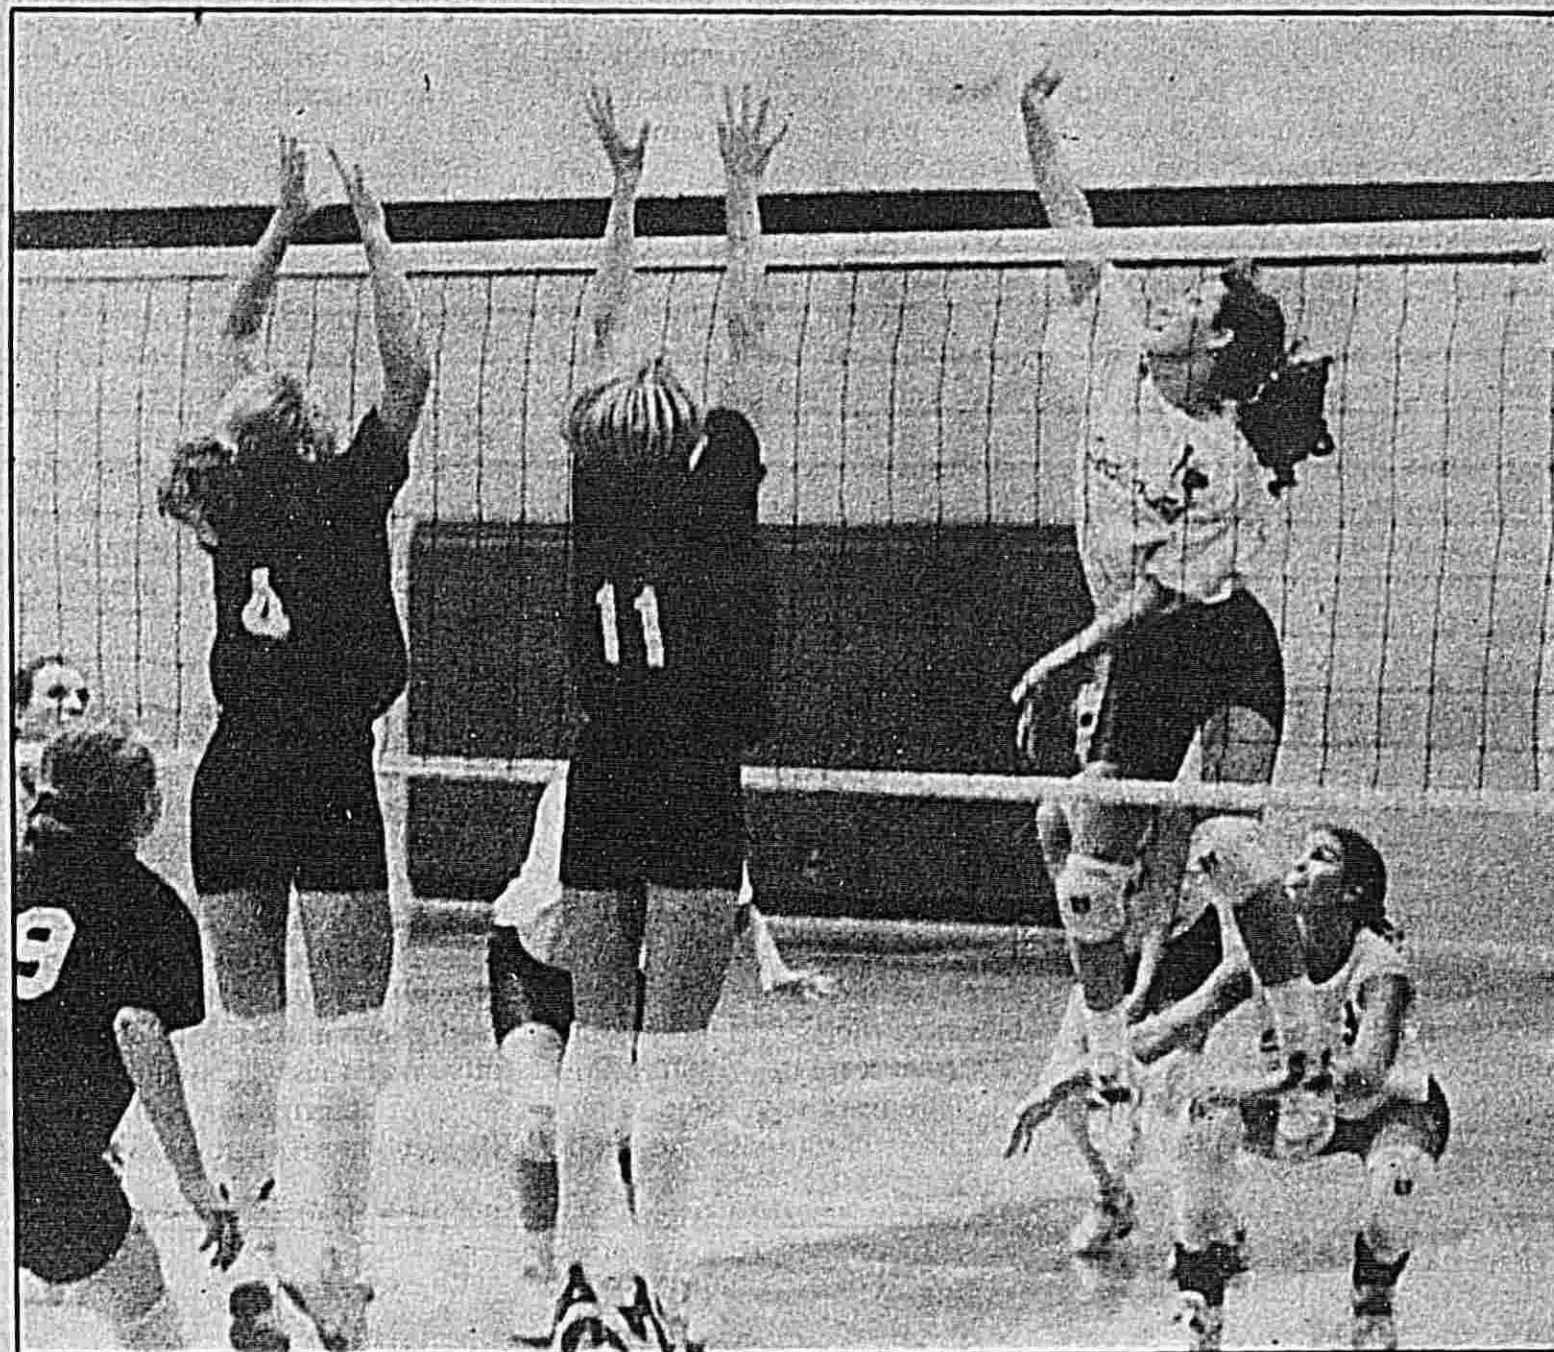

"Even though they have the height advantage, you still have to have a good pass and you have to have a good set before you can get a good hit," Varney said.

Antioch's Jennifer Peterson sparked in game two with several kills. Mary Ipsen expanded Antioch's cushion to 9-3 with a block at the net. O'Connell then came on fire at the end, scoring four of the last five points including the match-ending kill.

"There's no real super star on our team. Everybody knows their job," Varney said. "These kids are anxious to play anyone they face."

Antioch ace Erin O'Connell goes up for the kill. She was a dominant force in Antioch's upset over Libertyville. The Lady Sequoits hosted Stevenson, last year's conference champ, Wednesday before competing in the Stevenson Invite Saturday. With the win over Libertyville, O'Connell feels, "We can do anything."—Photo by Steve Young

Antioch golfers top St. Viator, Clark gains hole-in-one

The Lady Sequoit golf team played split a double-dual meet with Palatine and St. Viator, and lost another meet to a strong Libertyville team.

Antioch fell to Palatine 220-227 and edged St. Viator 227-232. The 186-215 loss to Libertyville left Antioch with a 4-4 overall record and 2-1 in conference.

In the Palatine-St. Viator meet, Antioch scoring honors went to Angie Pedersen (55) and Sarah Rockow (55), with the balance of the scoring going to Lisa Murphy (56) and Kelly Periman (61).

Varsity scores in the Libertyville meet included Pedersen (51), Sarah Murphy (52), Rockow (55), and Jessica Shore (57).

The junior varsity team also played host to Kenosha-Tremper and came away with a 259-280 win.

Medalist for the evening was sophomore Abigail Clark (62). Other top scores included DeAnne Dalgaard (63), Kacy Sehmer (64) and Amy Vanderkooy (70).

Clark recorded a hole-in-one during a practice round Sept. 10. The sophomore scored her ace using an 8-iron on an 87-yard par-3 hole at Raymond Heights Golf Center in Caledonia, Wis.

Clark completed her 9-hole round with a 35 on the par 27 course.

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

McHenry County has joined with Lake County in the effort to move boating safety legislation to Illinois. County Board Member Judy Martini (Dist. 1) found unanimous support at the McHenry County Law and Judicial Committee this week when she spoke of some proposed legislation to make the area waterways safer.

"The general consensus seems to be that everyone supports more regulation for personal watercraft operators," said Martini. "Even the personal watercraft manufacturers have come up with a model ordinance."

"The industry itself suggests no one under 16 years of age operate personal watercraft," Martini continued. "If it can save just one life..."

Both counties are looking at a law that would require a mandatory safety course for boaters and jet skiers. Last month the issue moved out of the Lake County Law and Judicial Committee and into the Legislative Committee, as the proposal slowly makes its way to Springfield.

The number of accidents on Lake and McHenry County waterways is what is motivating the proposal. "I really believe two-thirds of the accidents last year were caused by wave runners. Visitors come to the area and rent them without having a clue about the laws and regulations out there on the water. We have to educate them," she said.

The plan is to use the existing bureaucracies to require those on the water to either take a boater safety course or a test. In either case, boaters would then be required to show their licenses to marine officers.

"It would be phased in over a four-year period," said Martini. "As an individual's drivers license comes up for re-registration, the driver can either show he or she attended a craft safety course, or take a test. There are a lot of people out there already who have taken boating safety courses."

The Lake and McHenry Sheriff's Departments are both in support of the new law.

Martini will be meeting with the Illinois Department of Natural Resources next week to get more input in the proposed legislation.

Volunteers needed for Beach Sweep

The 1995 Great Lakes Beach Sweep is scheduled for 8:30 a.m. to noon, Saturday, Sept. 16, at Illinois Beach State Park. Ameritech Pioneers Illinois Chapter 1 need volunteers to help clean up the beach and document shoreline debris.

Last year more than 1,000 volunteers in Illinois collected 4.25 tons of trash during this one-day regionwide beach cleanup. In addition, they collected data on all the trash, which was added to the national Marine Debris Database and analyzed and published by the Center for Marine Conservation in Washington, D.C. The results are used in formulating solutions to the problem of aquatic and beach debris.

The designated area for the beach sweep will be a 3 to 6 1/2 mile stretch of the Illinois Beach State Park shoreline. Come alone or with friends or family. Bring work gloves and a picnic lunch; all other materials will be supplied.

For information call Beach Captain Marty Gregroy, 623-5190.

Womens Club to meet

The opening luncheon of the Antioch Woman's Club will be held at the Holiday Inn, Gurnee, on Sept. 20.

Hospitality will begin at 11 a.m. with lunch at noon. Guests are welcome.

The program for the luncheon will feature Mark Dvorak, singer of grassroots music from the past and present. An expert on guitar, five-string banjo, fretless banjo, and twelve-string guitar, he has hundreds of songs in his repertoire.

Antioch Woman's Club emphasizes intellectual growth and civic improvement, including annual scholarships for Antioch High School students, this year awarded to nine outstanding ACHS students.

Miss Alice Smith was the club's first president, in 1921. Membership in the Illinois Federation of Woman's Clubs was granted on Feb. 23, 1923. Mabel Lou Weber is the current club president.

Women's conference celebrates what is true, enduring to women

KATHLEEN SALVI

Special Correspondent

Editor's note: Kathleen Salvi has served as the Chicago area representative to the National Institute of Womanhood for the past two years. NIW is a non-partisan, non-secular organization devoted to public education on the issues concerning the well-being of women. The following is the view of the Fourth World Women's Conference attended.

Fresh from Beijing, China, where I took part in the Fourth World Conference on Women and the Non-Government Organization Forum, I exclaim with certainty, the press (for the most part) is missing the story.

I witnessed both intentional misrepresentation of fact and deliberate neglect in reporting the substance of the conference. As one Canadian woman, a journalist from Alberta, Canada, told me, "I'm simply not interested in what you have to say because I do not agree." This candid statement was uttered knowing full well that the group I represent, the Well-Being of Woman Caucus of the National Institute of Womanhood, represents 750 million women throughout the world. In spite of this, she and others chose to suppress the truth in order to promote a managed script of the conference written by a handful of elite women whose message can be summed up as follows: Women will achieve equality, development, and peace through a "pelvic centered" view toward women's health which promises empowerment via contraception, sterilization and abortion.

At a press briefing by International Planned Parenthood Federation (IPPF) on Sunday morning, Sept. 3, the IPPF framed the issues of interest to their organization. In response to a question about IPPF's shift from coercive quota-based population control measures to educating girls toward a change in their gender roles, Fred Sai, president of IPPF, and Ingar Brueggemann, secretary general of IPPF, See WOMEN page B2

Spring Grove killer counts final days

TINA L. SWIECH

Staff Reporter

The skies were overcast during the drive down the cracked-asphalt road that led to the prison. It began to mist.

The Multiple Security Unit was obscured by the hill and the car headed instead towards the Menard State Penitentiary — an old yellow building which looked like it was built around the turn of the century.

Outside, a large group of prisoners were playing baseball not far from the road. No shackles, no handcuffs, no gates surrounding the diamond.

A few of the men pointed and stared, some of the actions followed by remarks.

The car windows were rolled up and all doors were locked. The gas gauge read "empty."

ON DEATH Row

First in an exclusive three-part series

Arrival time at MSU was scheduled before 1 p.m. or the chance to talk with Chuck would be missed. The drive continued on down the road a few kilometers, the banks of the Mississippi River swirling slowly to my left.

Just ahead a few farms dotted the countryside before the car came upon a main road. The building known as "Death Row" was lurking somewhere in this area.

Back at the yellow brick prison, a security guard gave directions. "You can't miss it. It's that red building up on the hill," he said. "You can get there by following the road up and around the curve."

Sure enough, signs led the way. A quick glance at the watch showed plans were on schedule after traveling 350 miles to get here.

Charles Albanese, former Spring Grove resident and McHenry businessman, arrested in 1981 for the murders by arsenic poisoning of three family members and sentenced to death, has granted an exclusive interview.

"I don't like reporters," Albanese said previously on the phone. "But for some reason I trust you."

Pulling up to Death Row's building was chilling. It was very high up on the hill and overlooking the river below. A barge hauling steel floated past during the walk to the door.

At the entrance, the security guards were searching a couple of women who were there to see their boyfriends.

Once inside, the guards asked a myriad of personal questions, and required signatures on various papers.

They did a search which included a shoe x-ray. See KILLER page B2

County school's curriculum much more than three R's

RHONDA HETRICK BURKE

Editor in Chief

With the increasing need to teach technology and yearly recommendations from state educators on additional curriculum topics such as African-American history, AIDS education and the arts, educators are often faced with the challenge of ensuring core subjects are given proper teaching time.

Art, music, drama and subjects such as black history are not mandated but the state does require that the subjects be taught.

"If you look at the goals for learning put out by the state board of education they are there," Joan Hochschild, superintendent of Grayslake Dist. 46 said.

"In order for a school to be certified they must provide five clock hours of instruction per day not including passing time, recess or lunch," said Edward Gonwa, Lake County regional superintendent of schools. "There are no longer specific minutes per week required for teaching but a school must teach language arts, reading, science, math, social studies, music, art and health education. Additionally, schools are required to teach prevention and avoiding substance abuse. But, the time allotted is the option of the local school board."

Gonwa said schools use student's test scores as an overall indication of whether or not the curriculum is preparing students adequately.

"Under the school reform act of 1985, schools were required to establish learning objectives, develop assessments plans and write school improvement plans, we are currently doing that," Gonwa said. "Allotting a certain number of minutes to each subject will not adequately predict whether or not students will be successful on a standardized test. Schools must use an internal evaluation to ensure curriculum guidelines are being met."

Report cards on districts, issued each fall, provide taxpayers an indication on how well their districts meet the challenge. But, according to some area superintendents that time estimate can be misleading for several reasons — Lake County schools are often able to offer a See SCHOOLS page B2

Albanese sets out with last possible argument

TINA L. SWIECH

Staff Reporter

Arguments will be heard one last time in the Charles Albanese case, prior to his execution date of Sept. 20.

A clemency hearing has been scheduled for Sept. 15. Last week the Death Row inmate at the Menard Multiple Security Unit in Chester, Illinois said his attorney filed the petition with Federal Judge Brian Duffy.

Diane Ford, counsel to Governor Jim Edgar, explained on a call from Springfield that filing for a clemency hearing by inmates sentenced to death is a common occurrence. It's different than an appeal.

At the hearing, said Ford, "The prisoner himself does not show up." Most often the convicted prisoner will ask to have life imprisonment over the death penalty, she explained. However, they may ask for anything they wish for in the petition.

The governor then has up until the day of the execution to notify parties involved of his decision. He usually does this a day or two before, said Ford.

Albanese will be asking for a new trial at the clemency hearing.

Albanese has maintained his innocence since he was convicted in 1981 of poisoning four family members, killing three with arsenic.

"There's no smoking gun, no nothing," is how Albanese describes the situation which pinned him with murdering his father, M.J. Albanese; his mother-in-law, Marion Mueller, and his wife's grandmother, Mary Lambert.

He was also charged with the attempted murder of his brother, Michael. In 1982 he was twice convicted of the crimes.

Albanese turns the tables on the States Attorney's claims that he was out to control the family business, a trophy making operation at that time worth around $1 million.

Albanese claims his brother's testimony against him was created because Michael was the one who wanted to have the entire business himself.

Bank statements subpoenaed by the prosecution showed Albanese made a comfortable living through 1980 and 1981.

In the petition that Albanese filed for the clemency hearing, a Certified Public Accountant is named stating Albanese was in a "critical financial condition" and that's why he was hungry for more money.

Also, "The states attorney created all the evidence," Albanese said. For instance he notes experts that he claims "lied" on the witness stand.

When the bodies of the murdered family members were exhumed, Albanese said their organs, especially those of his mother-in-law were mishandled. A toxicologist contacted by the defense stated in court that after reviewing lab work on the organs, he found the results "meaningless."

Albanese claims he liked his in-laws. "I loved 'em. Mom was mom and Grandma was grandma," he said referring to his mother in law and grandmother in law.

He said he also had a good relationship with his father, and they worked closely together building the family business into a flourishing trophy manufacturer. He said he also had a good relationship with his brother.

With only days left, Albanese seems unphased. "I'm not getting nervous. Nothing, nothing will change me," he said.

A guard led the way to the back of the prison and through another door into a small locked area with bars on one side. The windows in the locked door had been shattered by a couple of bullet holes.

A group of security guards seated on the cement steps just outside the bars which led to the main part of the prison were smoking and telling jokes. The guard came back through the inside of the prison and opened the door. He led the way up the stairs where guards required yet another signature.

An aged Albanese looked though the bars of another locked door. Graying temples, and the same face that had been in the newspapers. It was him.

The guard opened the gate and led the way into the small room where Albanese or "Chuck" as he likes to be called, greeted me in handcuffs.

It was Sept. 9 and Albanese has only 11 days left to live.

In April of this year, Attorney General Jim Ryan filed a petition asking the court to set a date for Albanese's execution. He is scheduled to be put to death by lethal injection Sept. 20, at the Stateville Correctional Center near Joliet.

Prosecutors charged Albanese with the murders of his father, and attempted murder of his brother in a calculated scheme to win control of his family's business, Allied Die Casting in McHenry.

Ironically, the inmate often referred to life as "a business."

His mother-in-law and wife's grandmother, both Fox Lake residents, were also killed by Albanese for the family inheritance, said prosecutors.

The murders nearly went unnoticed, until coroners from both Lake and McHenry counties began chatting one evening at a party. Bodies were exhumed from the grave, and the most fiery form of conviction came from his brother, Michael, who testified against him at the trial which was held in McLean County.

Fourteen years in the penitentiary, Albanese continues to maintain his innocence.

Albanese's mother still lives in the Chain O' Lakes area. When asked if he had any contact with family members, including two daughters and a former wife, he looked me in the eye and said, "The biggest thing that hurts you here is your emotions."

A small man in stature, Albanese seems to have a lot of friends around the prison, though he explains there are no true friends in life.

With a hardened side to him, now 58, Albanese isn't shy to admit he's got a healthy ego. "It's one of the things that keeps me sane and keeps me going (day by day)," he said. He's ready to admit he's been a model inmate at Menard.

When asked if he believes he's truly a good person, Albanese said, "Yeah, sure. I did not do this. I have not committed these crimes," he says. "It's a frame-up," he adds. He speaks eloquently, educated. He shook a little while lighting his cigarette and shuffling his papers with his metal-clad wrists.

During the interview, we were interrupted several times by fellow inmates who asked him to pose for some quick snapshots taken by one of the guards. He smiled playfully for the camera, and then exaggerated a seductive look when the guard took one of him alone.

Superintendent Larry Hopkins of the Menard Correctional Center agrees Albanese is much of a celebrity around the penitentiary. "Charlie is one of the most likable guys on death row. As far as causing any problems, he's one of the most congenial people up here."

If given a choice, Albanese said he'd rather die. "I have no intention of spending the rest of my life in a penn."

As a Catholic who attends Mass as often as possible, Albanese said he's not afraid to die. "I have a perfectly clear conscience. I've led a good life, I'm 58-years-old. Heaven, Aruba, whatever you want to call it, is better than here."

Schools

great variety in their curriculum than schools in other parts of the state and elementary schools increasingly follow the whole language approach to education.

In Mundelein's Dist. 76 Diamond Lake and Fairhaven schools, the state guidelines are followed, but time spent on core subjects may vary between classes.

"It (the time) could change between schools and classes because of what is being learned or not understood in the class," said Superintendent Gary Clair. "We follow the whole language concept."

The whole language concept incorporates the teaching of core subjects into specific units. For example, a classroom may be studying dinosaurs as a social studies unit but will then use information about dinosaurs for language arts assignments and math. The use of the whole language concept has become increasingly popular among schools and makes it more difficult for a district to break down time spent on each core subject.

According to Richard Lanaghan, superintendent of Mundelein Dist. 75, teachers in that district are given flexible time to move at the rate of their classes' learning.

"Language arts and math constitute the majority of the class period," Lanaghan said. "But it just depends on whether or not the teacher feels the students understand the subject matter. The important issue is for the students to learn the material."

The additional resources available to Lake County schools also impacts the amount of time spent on core subjects, according to officials in several school districts.

Hawthorn School Dist. 73 (Vernon Hills) Curriculum Director Mick Hall noted that many schools downstate devote more time to core subjects because they don't have the resources to offer other electives such as music, art or computer learning.

"The kids here have a lot of opportunity that schools downstate don't have," Hall said.

Candance Tinley, director of instruction at Lincolnshire-Prairie View Dist. 103 echoed Hall's explanation.

At Half-Day school, fourth and fifth-graders have the opportunity to have classes in graphics arts, home economics and band in addition to computers, art, music and the core subjects.

"That takes times out of the student's day, but you also have to look at them as very valued subjects which help to produce a very well-rounded individual," Tinley said.

"I see more and more teachers being aware of time spent on task," said Kathleen Kuhr, Woodland Dist. 50's director of curriculum and instruction. "It's not the amount of minutes in the core subjects, but making it a meaningful experience to students. If they can relate to a subject, it clicks for them."

Gonwa emphasized that if a school district's test scores were to be considerably lower than state-wide averages, the state would take steps to direct that a school improvement plan be implemented.

"Schools do use the state average as a guideline, but it is really the student's performance that is the best indicator of whether or not the school is successful," Gonwa added.

There has not been so much a shift from our previous position as a recognition that merely getting the technology (that is, contraception, sterilization, and abortion) to the people will not necessarily guarantee fewer children. What we need to do is to "inculcate the people" toward the view that more than one child does not promote the common good of all. We do this through education of the girl-child away from gender stereotypes, namely, motherhood.

Sai said that China's population control program will be used as the model to "prime the population." Sai explained as follows: China's program met with success because they teach the 2-year old-child, you'd like a tricycle, wouldn't you? Well, if your mom has another baby, you won't get a tricycle. And when the child turns 7 or 8, they are taught, you see your home? It is small. If you have another baby that means less space for you. And how about shelling peas? You separate the good peas from the bad. An obvious reference to genetic selection abortions.

Thus, as Sai concluded, condition the people through media, school text and environmental themes and the ultimate goal of gaining widespread acceptance and use of contraception, sterilization and abortion is achieved.

The consequence of this strategy is, of course, the death of the family as we know it. It moves us toward the idea of "democratic citizenship" which means that the community is family. People live to serve the government, not government existing to serve its people.

This is the model for China. This is IPPF's model for America and the world.

How much equality, development and peace have we achieved with this, "a woman's biology is her worst oppressor," view toward womanhood? Very far backward, I'd say.

But most troublesome, perhaps, is the fact that of the 10 or so journalists present at the one hour briefing, not a one I am aware of reported on the meeting at all or reported from a perspective other than that spoon-fed by IPPF. So much for fair and uncensored reporting.

Tree cutting irks trustee

OLD MILL CREEK—The cutting down of old trees to make way for a new subdivision has irked at least one Old Mill Creek village board member. "I am very sorry nothing could be done. I feel a little responsible," Marie Lyons, Old Mill Creek board member, said. The cutting down of trees to make way for the Deerpath subdivision south of the village limits off Route 45 angered residents. However, county guidelines were followed.

ACHS takes meetings on road

ANTIOCH—The Antioch Community High School Board of Education is taking their meetings on the road. In an effort to serve the communities of Lake Villa and Lindenhurst, business meetings will be held on a rotating basis in all communities. "We've talked to the respective mayors and they have indicated we can hold our meetings at the various village halls," said ACHS Superintendent Dennis Hockney.

Clinton kills housing plan

WAUCONDA—A Lake County Housing Authority program to build low income housing for seniors and families in Wauconda has been eliminated by a budget cut signed into law by President Bill Clinton. The Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act of 1995 rescinded $620 million in funds to create low rent housing throughout the nation. The immediate impact of the budget cut is cancellation of a $2,274,500 project proposed by the Lake County Housing Authority to build a two-story 25 unit apartment building for elderly residents and 5 three-bedroom homes for low income families. "The entire project has been canceled," said Alon Jeffrey, executive director of the Lake County Housing Authority. "The money has literally been taken back by Washington."

Wife ends affair with hit man

MUNDELEIN—Bridget Cesario, 29, 140 N. Fairlawn, Mundelein, spoke to an acquaintance about hiring a hit man to do bodily harm to her or harm to her husband's girlfriend. That individual informed the Evanston Police who in turn contacted the Mundelein Police. Evanston undercover officer Gary Mayer met with Cesario on two occasions while he was wired for recording conversation. Cesario wanted Mayer to shoot her in the shoulder and then place the gun in the girlfriend's car or home. Fearing a bullet wound hurt too much, Cesario changed her mind and told Mayer to just kill the girlfriend. She gave Mayer $180 and promised the rest would be delivered after the job was finished and photos were brought back proving the job was completed, Kobeck stated. Cesario left the van and was then arrested by the Mundelein Police. She is being held in Lake County Jail on a $250,000 bond. On Sept. 15, Cesario will come before the judge for a rehearing. Cesario, mother of three, could receive 20 years in prison if found guilty.

Trustee objects to agreement

HAWTHORN WOODS—Hawthorn Woods Trustee Andy Bitta is outraged and is demanding an explanation for the intergovernmental agreement between the Lake County Stormwater Management Commission and the Illinois Tollway Authority. He said the agreement allows for the tollway authority to bypass environmental standards if it builds the Route 53 extension, which will bisect Long Grove, Hawthorn Woods and Mundelein enroute to Route 120 in Grayslake. Bitta urged the village board to formally object to the agreement since flooding resulting from the super highway would directly affect Hawthorn Woods residents. "As a citizen, I don't want to pay my taxes for the Stormwater Management Commission. This is absolutely ludicrous," he said.

Missing man found in car

GURNEE—A Gurnee man who went off a ramp was trapped in the car for seven days. Gene T. Roberts, age 24, was found in a sedan Sept. 8 lying in a creek near the covered bridge of HeatherRidge subdivision, located just west of a ramp connecting Routes 21 and 120.

Trustee clears the air

ROUND LAKE BEACH—Former Trustee Gary Shearer Sr. felt the need to explain why he left the village board. Shearer, who officially resigned two weeks ago, said he wanted to take care of his ailing mother in Wisconsin and said he couldn't continue to serve as trustee. He also had some parting shots for his fellow trustees on the Rescue the Beach Party. He said they ran a dirty campaign and he eventually ran independently from them. Trustee Gina Miosi, a Rescue the Beach Trustee, had questioned the authenticity of Shearer's resignation letter. Shearer said he wrote the letter and signed it himself. He said Mayor Ralph Davis is the best mayor the village has had and he will do what he can to support Davis, whose slate he had opposed in the April election.

Landfill permit still on hold

GRAYSLAKE—USA Waste has again granted the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) more time to consider the permit approval for expansion of the Countryside Landfill. USA Waste, owner of the landfill south of Grayslake, had already granted the IEPA an extension to consider the permit to expand the landfill facility which expired today. The IEPA now has an additional three weeks, until Sept. 27 to either grant or reject the expansion bid, which would more than double the size of the landfill of the next 20 years. According to IEPA spokeswoman Heather Nifong, the extension of the permit approval process was again necessary after USA Waste submitted additional documentation requested by the IEPA. In order to review the documentation, the IEPA requested the same amount of time it took to originally collect and submit the material.

Citing an illness in the family, Hoehne announced he will be moving to Texas after he leaves the department. Lid's off messy Wis. trash ban

For years, Wisconsin happily sponged up the income from all those "Flatlander" fishing and deer hunting licenses, and Illinois tourist dollars. About the only "south of the border" thing Wisconsin didn't like was garbage being hauled across the stateline for dumping in Badger state landfills.

Jan. 1, Wisconsin legislators took drastic steps to halt the importation of Illinois trash, clamping down on waste haulers from basically Lake and McHenry counties with a tough law that effectively prevented out-of-state dumping in Wisconsin landfills.

In a ruling that essentially supports the idea that garbage hauling is interstate commerce, a federal appellate court in Chicago has overturned the Wisconsin ban. The ruling is good news for local householders because it means their trash can be deposited in Wisconsin without the threat of prohibitive hauling charges while at the same time extending the life of landfills at Grayslake and Zion.

Andrew Quigley, executive director of the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County, hailed the ruling because it reduces pressure on local landfilling. It may be a little early, though, to send garbage trucks heading north. A federal court in Madison, which originally upheld the Wisconsin law, might have more to say. In a sense, the trash scene is a mess.

Waukegan model aids entire county

Among the many positive contributions being made by the College of Lake County is the commitment to revitalization of downtown Waukegan. All of Lake County benefits when Waukegan takes another step forward in rebuilding itself.

In a few weeks, CLC will be occupying the former Globe Dept. store with a major expansion of the Lakeshore Campus on Genesee St. The Globe renovation will result in much more than a cluster of classrooms. One of the improvements will be a child-care center with space for 40 pre-schoolers. There will be a fully equipped biology/chemistry laboratory and a new lab for students in the nursing assistant's program. All three floors of the once popular retail hub will be lighted by a dramatic skylight.

Before the end of the year, the City of Waukegan will open a new municipal parking lot with 200 spaces for Lakeshore students.

With CLC showing the way, the county's political leaders could well step up Waukegan revitalization by steering commerce to waiting space where the infra-structure is in place and the welcome mat is out. That isn't always the case in many other Lake County areas where growth and development amounts to a process of cramming approval down the throats of protesting citizens who treasure open space with rural overtones.

The wonder is that Democrats in Waukegan and Republicans in neighboring suburban areas have not yet discovered the common interest they share in revitalization of the city. Such a coalition would be a potent political force, an opportunity to share with benefits for all.

LETTERS TO THE Editor

Mail service exemplary

Editor:

While Chicago has made national headlines with its scandalous U.S. Postal Service—undelivered mail, trashed mail, lost mail, late mail—we are fortunate in Round Lake to be serviced by exemplary postal carriers and administrators.

A case in point. I inadvertently threw into the post office outdoor pick-up mailbox a letter that belonged to me and was not for mailing. It was an important letter that I hoped could be retrieved. When I informed the post office clerk by phone of my dilemma, she immediately reassured me that a search would be made. The delivery supervisor, known as Sonny, himself took charge of searching out the piles of mail to find the wayward letter.

In other instances, mail carrier Scott has never failed to deliver mail to the door when it was too bulky to fit in the home mailbox, or, if it was stamped "do not bend."

These are fine public servants that deserve our deep appreciation.

Mega housing opposed

Editor:

Wauconda needs Cambridge like it needs a 50-foot sinkhole in the middle of Rte. 176. And the sinkhole would be easier to fix than the damage done by Cambridge's "gifts to Wauconda," which would open the flood gates to other developers to take over the community.

We know Mayor Eschenbach gets excited about the prospect of changing the face of Wauconda. And it goes without saying he owes the developers and builders for their financial support in his bid for mayor. But the citizens of Wauconda elected him. He mouthed the words "slow and responsible growth" to get their vote, but this Cambridge project shows his real intentions.

Does Richard Breeden really believe that the few people buying homes near his orchard, who might buy his apples, will give him more profit than if he planted and harvested apple trees on that same land—as the forest preserve would let him do? If he wants development, he has plenty a few miles east in Mundelein.

Wauconda is growing at a reasonable rate now. Its citizens thought so in two surveys (remember then, Mr. Mayor?), and they don't want mega housing projects and urbanization.

Willard keeps her word

Editor:

I don't think there are any surprises in Lake County Clerk Willard Helander's recent administrative actions. She is doing what we asked her to do and what she campaigned to do before she was elected. We asked her to look for ways to streamline government operations, reduce the budget, right-size the department and automate whatever processes that could be automated without disrupting service to the public. This was a tall order and she undertook it with a great deal of vigor. Willard has done those things already and we're proud of her for it. It's refreshing to see a politician do what they campaigned to do and do it well.

As far as the accusations that she is replacing regular staff with campaign workers, I can tell you that is not true. Some campaign workers were hired, but there were many, many more volunteers across the county that had no intention of joining the clerk's staff after the election, nor were there any backroom plans for employment. I know this since I was of those who worked very hard on Willard Helander's campaign.

Development can be 'good'

Editor:

I want to thank the editors of the Lakeland Newspapers for the fine editorials warning against the dangers of unbalanced development here in Lake County. I appreciate the well-reasoned stance your newspaper takes.

Development is a "good" word; its implications denote progress and positive results. But when the word applies to spot zoning widespread urban density, or small residential lots on almost every subdivision plan, the word takes on implications which threaten the quality of life in the county and the well-being of the land itself.

I am not opposed to progress. I am all for first-rate builders and businesses locating and operating in Lake County. I want towns (and the county) to have the foresight to plan the development that's coming, and the wisdom to plan it "right" for the developers, the residents, and the land itself. I think zoning should be in a place which residents can rely upon, zoning that all local governments and developers will respect. And particularly, I want development to be balanced, giving top priority to preserving the beauty of the special acres of land which are rich in natural beauty. This would maintain the high quality of life in the environment for See LETTERS page B5

PARTY LINES

O'Kelly's 'no', not a vote for pro-development

Party Lines, the Lakeland Newspapers column of political commentary, is prepared from staff reports.

In light of the recent Forest Preserve District 11-11 vote which nullified an intent to purchase a key parcel of land to expand the West Loop trail from central Lake County to western Lake County, County Board member Diana O'Kelly of Mundelein contends that her "naye" vote does not indicate a vote for pro-development forces.

At the time of the vote, O'Kelly said there was confusion as to whether Bo Sargent was willing to sell his property to the Forest Preserve. The Wauconda landowner, instead, has plans to develop his property into a championship public golf course. He also intends to leave much of his property open for a tree nursery and apple orchard.

"The guy has plans for an 18-hole golf course. He's got a nursery. He plants trees, and he's got an apple orchard," O'Kelly said. "I certainly did not think it was a pro-development vote at all."

There are also some preliminary plans to build an upscale housing development with 2- to 5-acre lots.

"I see this land as land that is going to be preserved by the land owner," O'Kelly contended. "I was voting no because I can't vote blindly for something when there are discrepancies and I have a lot of questions."

She said the West Loop trail system for bicycle and equestrian paths can still be worked out without the Sargent parcel.

Chamber celebrates 80th—The Lake County Chamber of Commerce is celebrating its 80th birthday this year in "continuous service since 1915." "We're older than the U.S. Chamber," noted Chamber President Charles Isely.

The chamber began as the Waukegan Commercial Association in 1915 and has undergone various name changes since settling on the Lake County Chamber of Commerce in 1993. Its mission aims to "identify and serve the needs of Lake County businesses, small through large, working to increase prosperity by encouraging growth of existing businesses and fostering new enterprises..."

Party Lines salutes the Lake County Chamber of Commerce and wishes it a happy 80th birthday.

Cubs fever presides over all—While Cal Ripken Jr.'s race to break Major League Baseball's consecutive game streak was big news all around the country, it was little potatoes in his home town of Baltimore, so says one Lake Zurich bigwig.

While in Baltimore on a business trip the week before Ripken broke Lou Gehrig's Iron Horse record of 2,130 games played in a row, Larry Coffey

Coffey, Lake Zurich Plan Commission Chairman, found himself in a hotel lobby one night. Two baseball games were being televised, one featuring the hometown Orioles and the other the Chicago Cubs.

Guess which one was shown on a big-screen television, while the other game was relegated to a teeny set off to the side?

Answer, please—Maybe he was late for a match, but County Board Rep. Bob Buhal (D-Highland Park) ought to explain why he left his car in a handicapped zone at Highland Park County Club while cavorting around the tennis court.

Fancy affairs—Office holders have to go a long way to top the annual brunch State Sen. William "Bill" Peterson sponsors at Marriott's Lincolnshire Resort. Peterson's administrative aide, Jan Zobus is busy these days taking reservations at 945-5127 for the Sunday, Oct. 8, event running from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. It's always a sell-out.

Hedging bets—State Rep. Al Salvi (R-Waukegan) is expected to circulate petitions in west Lake County for reelection at the same time he's getting signatures for his bid for the U.S. Senate nomination. Maybe confusing to the electorate, but smart politics all the same.

Dole backers—Illinois' top Republicans (spell that Gov. Edgar and his team) are backing Sen. Dole all the way. Sec. of State George Ryan is solidly behind Sen. Phil Gramm. State Rep. Bob Churchill (R-Lake Villa), House majority leader and a Dole backer, said he wasn't surprised with the support Gramm has organized in Illinois. The backing for Gramm is the result of more than a year's effort by the Texas king pin cultivating Illinois.

Correction—Aides of Congressman John Porter (R-Wilmette) are monitoring every written and spoken word of Richard Rinaolo, the young Lake Forest businessman who is making noises like he'll run against Porter in the spring primary.

The Porter staff pointed out that the veteran Republican voted for both the Brady Bill gun control legislation and the ban assault weapons.

True, Porter voted against the Republican tax cut package, offering the explanation that deficit reduction takes precedence. Rinaolo has been attempting to paint a picture of a Republican Congressman drifting away from mainstream GOP positions.

Dave Kohn, long-time Porter press spokesman, bristled over Rinaolo's characterization that Porter is tilting leftward as "misleading, untrue and unfair."

If Rinaolo announces, the battlelines will be drawn. The Porter staff already has indicated that the fact the Rinaolo is inexperienced and has lived in the North Shore's 10th Dist. only a few months will not go unnoticed.

which many residents moved to Lake County. That's why we moved here six years ago; we had a nice house in a wonderful neighborhood, but we came to Lake County and bought land in a natural area because it is so beautiful. I don't like hearing about bad decisions like a developer who unnecessarily cuts down mature trees, rather than working them in to a subdivision which includes hundreds of homesites; I have yet to hear of any reason why preserving those trees was impossible.

Every time I read about the hassling that goes on in zoning disputes, the developers fighting for denser and denser land use whether it's a residential subdivision or a commercial or office building, I worry that this county will end up just as dense as Cook County, where we came from.

I think a property owner's property rights include the responsibility not to exploit the land to the detriment of the public good; a property owner's expectations should be reasonable, without undue damage either to the natural resources (trees, wetlands, etc.), or the neighbor's property rights and expectations based on existing zoning.

If bad decisions are made and permitted to stand, if governments don't plan wisely and then stick to their plans, if deference is not paid to preserve the valuable things in our environment, then the beauty of Lake County will be thrown away, its acres will be wrongly exploited, and all of us who live and/or work in Lake County are the losers.

Invitation to corruption

Editor:

Firing all the Democrats and replacing them with Republican has-beens like Edna Schade may be "positive changes" according to Lake County Clerk Willard Helander, but it also removed the last, flimsy safeguard for honest elections in Lake County.

Our ballots are hauled to the Lake County Courthouse in a complex process involving "transfer points" by employees of Helander. Then they are fed into a computer by employees of Helander and counted by a computer program paid for by Helander. Each step of the way, a corrupt employee (or dare we say it, a corrupt county clerk!) could tamper with the results without anyone outside the office knowing about it.

As computer expert Howard J. Strauss of Princeton said in a 1988 Dan Rather interview, "When it comes to computerized elections there are no safeguards. It's not a door with locks, it's a house without doors." By firing all the Democrats, County Clerk Helander has created a cozy situation in her office that invites suspicion and mistrust on the part of anyone not connected to Lake County's Republican Establishment.

That's why the Illinois Legislature mandated precinct ballot counters in notoriously corrupt Cook County. In that county, ballots are now run through a mechanical counter that is tested for accuracy before the actual ballot count.

Lydia suffers enough

Editor:

Kudos to Mayor Bobby Thompson of North Chicago and Mayor Ken Hamsher of Fox Lake for refusing to permit a business promoter to feature Lydia the elephant as an advertising ploy, not only because of the inherent dangers posed to residents but also because such forbiddance by government officials will further discourage continued exploitation of this huge, long-suffering, 48-year-old creature regularly hauled from state to state, week after week, month after month, year after year, for public display.

Agency new bureaucracy

Editor:

The Waterway Management Agency was created in an effort to curb the multi-agency bureaucracy which had entangled preservation and improvement to the Chain O'Lakes. It appears that rather than improving the situation, the Waterway Management Agency is adding a layer to the problem.

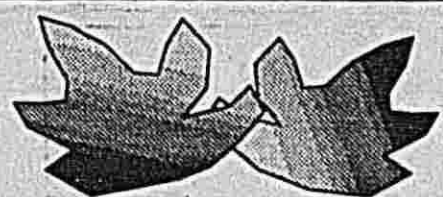

Many of the projects being undertaken smack of special interest pandering, while real and obvious problems such as the abandoned boat off Indian Point, the general maintenance of navigation makers, and the problem of littering in the Chain O'Lakes receive no attention. Let's see an agency which is accessible to the community, which engages the community, which participates with the community. Let's see an agency which exists for the public not for those who have an interest in lobbying their own interests.

I am concerned that the Waterway Management Agency's newly legislated powers have reduced the level of accountability to the public. The agency must demonstrate that all projects are undertaken for the benefit of the general public and not simply to provide an inexpensive fix to a localized problem. We do not need an agency with unregulated authority determining the long term direction of the Chain O'Lakes.

Fall Foliage

Fall's parade of color just around the corner

With cooler weather here we will now begin to view the fall colorings of many plants. The first tree that comes to mind is the Sugar Maple, a slow grower in youth with an upright, oval to rounded shape. Its leaf color in the summer is a medium to dark green with a wide variety of colors in the fall. I've observed yellow, burnt orange and even some tinges of red in this plant's leaves.

Some of our favorite cultivars for this area are: "Fairview," "Flax Mill Majesty," and the favorite of many people, "Green Mountain." This particular cultivar has a dark green, leathery feel to the foliage and has a good resistance to leaf scorch. Colors in our area are generally orange to yellow in the fall. The placement of this tree must be thought-out as it prefers well-drained, somewhat moist soils. It should not be planted close to streets that are salted or in a low area that floods a lot.

The Red Maples are another group of trees that light up the autumn sky with colors ranging from yellow to brilliant red.

The big knock against this tree is it can get chlorosis in our soils due to high pH. Recent research, however, has shown that manganese is the casual agent and can be added to the soil. Also, the pH should be corrected to help release nutrients for uptake by the tree. The Red Maples are generally the first trees to begin the parade of fall colors. Be careful to select certain cultivars like "Red Sunset" Red Maple or "October Glory" Red Maple to ensure a consistent fall coloring year after year.

If you're a fan of purple, two beautiful plants that are quite handy for our growing area come to mind: The "Autumn Purple" White Ash and the increasingly popular "Chanticleer" Pear.

The "Autumn Purple" White Ash can achieve heights of 40 to 45 feet with a spread of 50 to 60 feet. A very pyramidal-rounded outline develops with age. It is a medium grower (one to two feet a year) that has very clean, dark green leaves in the summer, turning each fall to a reddish-purple cast. This fall color is very consistent every year and can hold its color for two to four weeks.

Some other White Ash cultivars which have nice fall colorings are: "Autumn Applause," "Chicago Regal," a Klehm introduction; and "Skyline."

A large ornamental that does lots of interesting things during a season is the "Chanticleer" Pear.

In the spring it flowers extremely heavily and is followed by a lustrous green leaf all summer. Its fall colorings have been a reddish-purple for the last three fall seasons in our area. It colors late in the fall season and we have seen leaves on this tree well into the third week of November. This plant can grow 35 feet high with 15 to 20 foot width. It has a nice, upright-pyramidal form that is attractive even in the winter.—by MIKE GRECO, principal of Mike Greco Landscape and Mill Creek Nursery, Inc.

Treat lawns in fall to ensure next spring beauty

Fall is a great time to prepare your lawn for next spring. A little effort now will yield a lusher, healthier lawn next spring. Consider these lawn-care tips.

Fall fertilization is one of the most important times of the year to fertilize cool-season and warm-season grasses. It provides nutrients to keep your lawn strong through winter months of dormancy and provide nutrients for early-season spring growth.

If fertilized in the fall, grass plants will produce and store carbohydrates for immediate use in early spring. This will allow faster greening and thicker grass populations earlier and faster in the spring. In the fall, experts recommend applying fertilizers that contain higher levels of potassium and phosphorus than spring or summer fertilizer blends. Higher potassium and phosphorus levels encourage development of the root mass. Experts also recommend choosing a fertilizer that contains slow-release nitrogen, which is not water-soluble and will not cause water pollution.

Fall also is the perfect time to plant a new lawn or overseed on that has suffered through an unfavorable summer.

On your final mowing of the season, set your mower deck two notches lower than usual. This will remove excess leaf matter from the turf. In the spring, sunlight and moisture will more readily reach the new grass plants. This will speed greening.

Decked out

Planning a deck in 1996 in Round Lake Beach? Start planning now. In June, we decided to build a deck. We were surprised with all the costs. There was a $30 application fee, $10 permit fee, $20 for each inspection and a $50 deposit. We failed the first inspection because the holes were an inch too narrow, even though the inspector had no tape measure with him. The second inspection we waited and waited. We finally called and the inspector said he forgot to come out. He asked a few questions over the phone and gave us a verbal approval. When we waited for our deposit back, we only got $30. We were hoping for $70 since we did not have one of the inspections. They said they deducted $20 because we were told over the phone to stop building. That is a blatant lie and we believe the inspector does not want to get into trouble because he did not want to do his job. Start planning your Round Lake Beach deck now.

Arbitrary walkout

The day before the Round Lake teachers walked out on our kids, they were offered a 3 percent, 4 percent and 5 percent raise over three years and the rest of the items were to be taken to arbitration. On the first day of arbitration the negotiators accepted the raises. The teachers walked out for nothing. This makes me angry and I will not support the teachers or the union.

Politics at work

I'm calling from Antioch and have lived on the Chain o' Lakes all my life. I'm unhappy with the Fox Waterway. First they preach save the shorelines and lotus beds and all the vegetation from erosion and then they say the boats tear up the lakes. On the other hand, they issue a permit to run boat races on Grass Lake, which is the shallowest in the chain. These high-powered boats run through what is left of the fish spawning beds. It looks like the boat races will continue, because one of the directors on the Waterway Agency is one of the main people involved in organizing these races. I think this is a political play; it's all money and politics. Even our new open house will honor the people who helped pass this. It sure looks like a candidate victory party to me.

Destruction near

The politicians have proven the old adage that when population increases, the quality of life decreases. Just look around you at the problems with traffic, schools, and everything. I'm from the growth-happy Lindenhurst/Antioch area. I wonder how long it will take them to completely destroy this territory!

Sell, sell, sell

I live in Antioch and the problem with residents who live near railroad tracks complaining about train whistles is sophomoric. If the public's safety is less of an issue than one's own self interest, these people should wait until their property values go up after the train line is running and sell their homes.

Where were you?

After reading your article in the Lake Villa Record, I was appalled to read how Suzi Schmidt was so upset over a developer cutting down some trees. Where were you, Suzi, when all the trees were cut at Wilson Rd. and Rollins just to move the road 50 feet? What is that mess over there anyway, with all those poles in the middle of the road? I've never seen such a mess. If you're so concerned about the environment, how could you have stood by when those beautiful trees were cut? There's no erosion barriers in the area, either. Get real, Suzi. If you're going to stop tree-cutting in one area, it should be stopped even when the county is cutting them.

Making us proud

This is to the person who wasn't happy with the Grayslake bands in the parade. Those students and teacher gave up part of their summer to practice for that parade. If the referendums aren't passed, they cannot have uniforms to wear. One of the most rewarding experiences they can have in school is to be in the band. It's too bad your son dropped out, because he's missing a great organization. I was glad to see them march and I'm sure they'll always be something Grayslake can be proud of.

Laugh it up

To 'Lose It', in the Sept. 1 issue, you're getting so postal (that's stressed, if you don't understand) over two pages in the newspaper. I really think you need to get a life. Some of us get a good chuckle from Lipservice, much like your entry into Lipservice made me laugh. Laughter is a great stress reliever. Try it, you'll like it!

Lose lunch

I'm calling about the Stanton

School lunchroom. My child comes home every day telling me what junk they serve for lunch. Why does Stanton even have a lunch program if the food is so bad? They should just cut it out and save all the money!

'Messy' Hill

I'm from Hainesville's Deerpoint section. In the back of us, there is construction being done by Misty Hill. If people in Round Lake think they've got dirt and filth, you should come here. Families can't go on their back porches, the noise is tremendous, starting at six o'clock and ending as late as quarter to seven at night. I've talked to the engineers and it's like talking to a brick wall. Misty Hill's got another thing coming if they think they're going to get away with this.

Wauconda Orchards, can sell his business? Are we going back to the days of old when narrow-minded people controlled our lives? Support Cambridge Homes, and allow a family who has given so much to our community the right to make their own choices.

Name change

Did you know that the new name for the Lake County Forest Preserve will soon be Wauconda Forest Preserve? If they buy up most of the land surrounding Wauconda?

Care for seniors

Wauconda Trustee Liza Johnson, have you ever driven through the town and seen the senior citizens who walk uptown every day? Do you need to stop every service that's offered unless it affects you?

Empty the trash

I'm a Udenhurst resident and I want to complain about how dirty and filthy the Amoco gas station is on Grand Ave. and Deep Lake Road. This is supposed to be an upscale community and there was trash littered over all the gas tanks and trash cans by the car wash. I think it's really bad that a main street like this looks so filthy. I'm sure someone could empty their trash cans.

Can anybody help?

Well, Warren High School started, and so has trouble! In the last two weeks I've seen 20 to 30 underage kids in the parking lot smoking pot and cigarettes. There have been seven fights. When I talked to the school, they said it's the police department's fault and the police say it's the school's fault. Kids are getting jumped and put in the hospital. Who should we send our hospital bills to, the park district who owns the property or the Gurnee Police Department? Our hands are tied, and nobody's going to help us.

Replacement needed

Hi, I'm calling about the recycling bug. There were several comments complaining about the person picking up the recyclables in the neighborhood. Obviously, there are many of us who are bothered by what she's doing. We all need to call the garbage company and complain so she can stop doing this or be fired. To the person who said we're just being sexist, it doesn't matter whether they're a man or woman. If you're not doing your job properly, you should be dealt with or replaced.

Pack their lunch

This is in response to the Fox Lake parent who complained about the $1.80 lunch and said she can cook better. Why don't you pack your children's lunch? It will cost less and will be much more nutritious!

Popcorn is money

Refreshments cost so much at the movies because that's where they make their money. The money you pay to get in barely pays for them to have that movie there. The theaters make their money by what they sell at the refreshment stand. Also, about the Indian comment in LIPSERVICE, it wasn't a racist comment. Can't we say anything these days without being accused of racism? Get real!

Affordability

About the person who commented on no housing in the Sept. 1 issue, doesn't this person realize that some people can't afford what he or she might be able to afford?

Thanks for help

I'd like to say thank you to Officer Waters of the Round Lake Police Department who helped my daughter find her keys after a traffic accident. Also, thanks to the kind soul who found her keys and turned them in. Thanks!

Push politicians

I'm calling in reference to teen violence. Maybe we should all press our political people to let child care for ages 13 to 16 be tax deductible also, and maybe we wouldn't run into so many problems.

Take care of roads

Once again it looks like the notorious road commissioner of Lake Villa Township has given the residents more baloney. For two years now, the residents of Fox Lake Hills have been waiting to get their road repaved. Every year it's the same thing, no money and budget cuts. Finally, the man gets a budget and he does 70 or 80 percent of the Fox Lake Hills Orchard Gardens subdivision, but he forgets one whole street. They tore up one part of the street three times in the past year and had it resurfaced. What's wrong with Fairview Lane and other parts in the area? Our roads deserve to be taken care of the same as everyone else's in the township.

So sorry

I surely apologize to the Indian nationality. I certainly did not mean to make a negative comment on any true American. I simply wanted to get the point across that people need to control their children. They are your responsibility, not store patrons. As a patron, I'm fed up with people letting their kids run around screaming and using foreign languages no one can understand other than themselves. Parents should be responsible and control these children. Again, I apologize to everyone of true American heritage, the Indian race.

Charlie Trotter guest host at 15th Annual Chef Cuisine Benefit

Recognized by "Conde Naste Traveler," "Chicago Magazine," "Gourmet" and "Eating Well Magazine," Chicago's Master Chef Charlie Trotter is easily one of the world's most talented restaurateurs. And, the 15th Annual Chef Cuisine Benefit is proud to have him.

Trotter will be the special guest chef at this year's taste tempting benefit sponsored by the Victory Hospital Foundation. Chef Cuisine will be held from 3 to 8 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 17 at Midlane Country Club, 14565 Yorkhouse Rd., Wadsworth. Tickets are $25 in advance, $30 at the door. Call 360-4246 to make reservations.

Adding excitement to this year's Chef Cuisine, which will benefit Lake County's HealthReach Clinic, Trotter will share some of his personal cooking insights during a cooking demonstration. He will also

Trotter, who was raised in Wilmette, began cooking in earnest after receiving a B.S. in political science at the University of Wisconsin. In 1982, he began four years of traveling the U.S. and Europe, working in a variety of restaurants and studying with great chefs. Norman Van Aken, Bradley Ogden and Gordon Sinclair were among those he studied under.

To hone his skills and better define his recipes, including food and wine combinations, Trotter became a caterer of exclusive business and social dinners in 1986. A year later he took the "big leap" and opened "Charlie Trotter's" in Chicago.

His restaurant's success is due to Trotter's combination of outstanding food and service. It's earned the restaurant a 4 Star rating from "Chicago Magazine," one of only three restaurants in Chicagoland to be so honored.

"To Charlie Trotter, food is much more than just another pretty plate," reports "Bon Appetit." That statement is reflected in Trotter's innovative use of healthful, fresh foods. While his cooking style is firmly rooted in the classic French traditions, Trotter imbibes his cooking with techniques and flavors from all parts of the world.

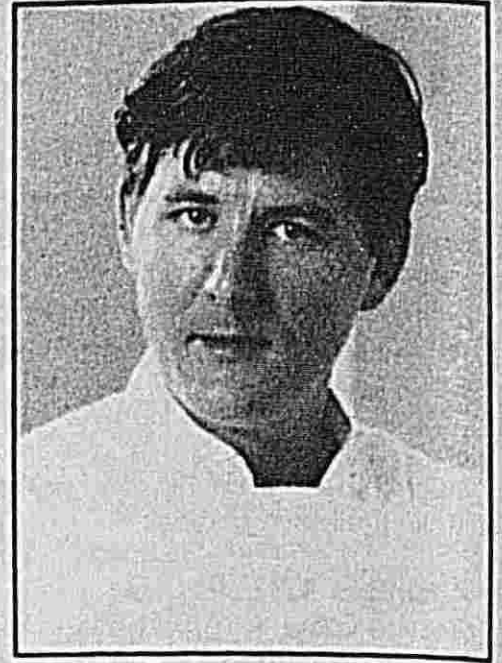

Because he believes "the taste of free-range and organic products is so much better than the alternative," Trotter uses only free-range meats and as much organically grown produce as is available. Seeking a unique taste experience for diners, Trotter specializes in the use of infused oils and vegetable flavored vinaigrettes.

"Unlike sauces which incorporate a lot of butter or cream, vinaigrettes and infused oils do not mute or block the basic flavors of the ingredients they are meant to support," says Trotter. "The result is an explosion of flavors and a riot of colors—usually in a healthier form."

With the success of his Chicago restaurant, Trotter is now duplicating his efforts with a second restaurant in Las Vegas. He shares some of his favorite recipes in an artistic cookbook, "Charlie Trotter's." Trotter is currently working on a second cookbook, "The Charlie Trotter Vegetable Book." Publication is expected in 1997.

The Chef Cuisine Benefit is the perfect place to meet Master Chef Charlie Trotter. There's time to get a cookbook autographed, ask favorite culinary question or just sit back and nibble on the taste treats from dozens of Lake County restaurants while watching the genius at work during his cooking demonstration.

For more information on the 15th Annual Chef Cuisine Benefit, call Laurie Stone at 360-4246 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Author tells how to cook delicious, healthy meals

SUSIE REED

Regional Editor

Although the trend toward eating healthy has grown considerably during the last decade, the concept was a natural progression for author/teacher Carole Stern.

As a cardio-vascular product manager for Searle Laboratories in Skokie, she had access to a large supply of Equal® sweetener, which resulted in "The Free and Equal Cookbook," and then "The Free and Equal Dessert Cookbook."

"I had time to experiment," said Stern. "As I began to write cookbooks, trends evolved to low-cholesterol, low-fat cooking. What the next trend is going to be we will have to wait and see."

Stern, who authors under the her maiden name, Carol Kruppa, has tried-and-true tricks to cut down on fat and calories, with a heavy reliance on buttermilk, wine and herbs to add flavor. Each recipe is created in her own kitchen and tested no less than three times "to make sure it's predictable." Her husband, Harvey, is a willing test subject.

"For weight control you have to have the right food on hand," she noted.

Many of her recipes are inspired by items she obtains in quantities. A gift of zucchini, for example, got her started on creating a low-fat bread, a pasta dish, and a zucchini cake.

"Thinner Dinners in Half the Time" features low-calorie recipes that can be prepared in quantity and frozen. Six different cooking methods make use of a stockpot, wok, slow cooker, steamer, oven and microwave to produce a variety of healthy meals that can be stored and used at will as part of today's busy lifestyles.

Stern's "Love Your Heart Cookbook" has developed into a series which now includes versions that feature Mediterranean and Italian dishes. Each recipe includes nutritional data and diabetic exchanges.

Friends encouraged Stern to go one step further with a diet program to educate consumers on incorporating a sensible diet into a healthy lifestyle. The result was "Heart Smart Life Styles," a course which teaches the value of vitamins, fiber and grains, along with tips on dining out and substitutions. She has taught classes at several libraries in Cook and Lake counties.

The 10-week "Heart Smart Life Styles" course began Sept. 11 at Libertyville High School. The Libertyville Park District has scheduled classes on home-made pizza for Sept. 19 and 26, and heart healthy gifts from the kitchen Oct. 10 and 18. For more information call the park district at 362-8310.

"It's for people who are watching their weight or their heart healthy lifestyle," she said. "I know it works. My students are living examples."

The course has spawned a "30-Plus Cookbook," geared chiefly toward women who are interested in maintaining a healthy diet while keeping an eye on weight control.

Stern didn't stop there. She realized the difficulty conscientious diners face in restaurants when trying to select low-fat items.

"So many restaurants have been cooking the same way for so many years," she said. "People want to be able to go to a restaurant and find healthy choices."

Armed with recipes and nutritional information, she set on a public relations campaign to offer restaurant patron some healthy alternatives. Diners at the Milwaukee Road House will find some changes in the menu. The restaurant will introduce a new "Heart Smart" bill of fare featuring specials on low-fat selections such as turkey burgers or pasta with vegetables. Nutritional information will also be included on the menu.

Stern also offers private consultations and is working with area doctors to provide heart smart diet information to pregnant women.

Another offshoot of Stern's classes is the "Heart Smart Life Styles" eight-page monthly newsletter, with the premier issue making its appearance this month. The publication will include sections on herbs, seasonal foods, desserts, meatless dishes, international tastes, entertaining, featured products, and requested recipes. A year's subscription is $29.95; charter subscribers will receive free recipes.

For more information on the cookbooks, classes or the newsletter call 680-6744.

Kids FARE Kids still need culture, too

The Northbrook Park District and the Northbrook Theatre present a lively series of acts especially for children and families. One Saturday each month during the school year we invite families to join us at 2 p.m. for an hour of diverse children's entertainment.

Music, Mirth and Mayhem with the famous Dave Rudolph will be presented Sept. 16 at 2 p.m.

Ventriloquist Chuck Field with his friend Ziggy spin tales and spout wisecracks that will have you laughing till you're on the floor.

Drawing on his own childhood experiences, Chuck talks to kids on a level they can understand. Special guest appearance by Jenny Field, the 9-year-old amazing mini-ventriloquist.

CLC celebrates Hispanic Heritage month

Thought-provoking lectures, colorful ethnic dances and dynamic music will be part of the College of Lake County's Hispanic Heritage month celebration from Sept. 15 through Oct. 15. This year's theme is "Hispanics Defending America," which was chosen in honor of the 50th anniversary of the end of World War II and the Hispanics who sacrificed their lives for their country.

The following programs will be held at CLC's Grayslake campus, 19351 W. Washington St. Sept. 20 from 10 to 11 a.m., speaker Norma Salazar in the auditorium. Free admission. A professor of education at Chicago State Univ., Salazar is the author of "Foolish Men!" an inspiring story of a 17th century Mexican nun who educated herself more extensively than most of her male and female contemporaries and confronted the challenges of a male-dominated society that considered women intellectually inferior.

Sept. 22 from 7 to 8 p.m. The Clemente Steel Band from Roberto Clemente High School in Chicago. Panamanian dances from 8 to 10 p.m.

Sept. 25 from 9 to 10 a.m. Speaker Aliana Apodaca. A native of El Paso, Texas, Apodaca transformed herself from being a single mother on welfare to an outstanding community leader.

Jose Briones Ballet Folklorico San Jose, Sept. 29 from 7:30 to 9 p.m. The Waukegan-based dance company will present regional Mexican dances.

Oct. 2 from 10 to 11:30 a.m., speaker William Luna. Free admission. President of his own management company and owner of a bookstore, Luna has worked as a training coordinator for the Ill. Dept. of Human Rights and an associate director of affirmative employment programs in the U.S. Office of Personnel Management.

Oct. 6 from 7 to 8 p.m., Puerto Rican music and Honduran dance. For ticket information, call 223-6601, ext. 2300.

'Noises Off'

Tickets are on sale for Bowen Park Theater Company's first show of its 10th season, "Noises Off" at the Jack Benny Center for the Arts, 39 Jack Benny Dr., Waukegan. "Noises Off" is a raucous rollicking comedy by Michael Frayn. Show dates are Sept. 15, 16, 22, 23, 24, 28, 29 and 30. All performances start at 8 p.m. with the exception of Sunday, Sept. 24 which is a 3 p.m. matinee. Tickets prices are $15 for adults, $12 for seniors. For ticket reservations call, 360-4741.

'Fiddler on the Roof'

One of the most favorite musicals for community theaters to give is "Fiddler on the Roof" by Stein, Bock, and Harnick. Antioch's PM&L, located at 877 Main St., has chosen this production to open their 35th season. Show dates are Sept. 15, 16, 22, 23, 29 and 30 at 8 p.m., and Sept. 17, 24, 30 and Oct. 1 at 2:30 p.m. Ticket prices are $9 for adults and $7 for students and seniors. Reservations are required by calling the box office at 395-3055.

'On Tidy Endings'

"On Tidy Endings," a one-act play by Tony Award-winning author Harvey Fierstein, will be performed during "A Time to Act: Suburban Theatre Responds to AIDS," an evening of entertainment and fundraising to benefit Season of Cancer, the Chicago theatre community's fundraising effort in the fight against AIDS. The gala event, which will also feature a raffle of exciting prizes, will begin at 7 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 16 at Theatre 219, located at Niles West High School, 5701 W. Oakton St. in Skokie. For tickets call 966-8280 or 215-2316.

'Fahrenheit 451'

'Sayonara'

The Fireside Restaurant and Playhouse will host "Sayonara," the musical romance based on James A. Michener's novel. It's running through Oct. 15, with nine performances weekly Wednesday through Sunday. All ticket prices include dining in the Fireside's 1,000-seat restaurant. The 700-seat theatre-in-the-round is located at Hwy. 26 S., Fort Atkinson, Wis., an hour's drive from Milwaukee. For tickets call, (800) 477-9505 or (414) 563-9505.

Auditions

Auditions for PM&L's production of "Breaking Legs" will be held at the theater, 877 Main St., Antioch on Sept. 18 and 19 at 7:30 p.m. This comedy has roles for five men (mature 40 to 50s) and one woman in her late 20s. Call Sand Sundberg at 546-1079.

'Promises'

Northbrook Theatre opens its 1995-96 season with "Promises, Promises," a musical by Neil Simon and Burt Bacharach. It runs Sept. 22 through Oct. 14 on Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 p.m. A Sunday matinee will be offered Oct. 8 at 3 p.m. Tickets are on sale now and priced $13 in advance or $15 at the door. Discounts are available for seniors and groups. Call 291-2367.

'The Dresser'

Beginning Sept. 27, "The Dresser" will be presented at the Apple Tree Theatre, 595 Elm Pl., Highland Park. Set in a provincial theater in England in 1942, this fascinating drama explores the captivating and indissoluble relationship of a fading actor and his "dresser." Performance schedule is Wednesdays through Sundays.

Tickets are priced at $22 for Wednesdays, Thursdays and the Sunday matinee; and $24 for Friday and Saturday. For reservations or information, call 432-4335.

'Charlotte's Web'

The musical version of the children's book "Charlotte's Web" will be presented at 11 a.m. Sept. 23 in the College of Lake County auditorium, 19351 W. Washington St., Grayslake. Tickets are $2. Advanced ticket purchase is recommended. Call 223-6601, ext. 2300 for tickets.

Arlo Guthrie

Singer, songwriter, actor Arlo Guthrie, accompanied by his son Abe on keyboards, will appear in concert at the Woodstock Opera House on Sept. 19 and 20, with each show beginning at 8 p.m. "Alice's Restaurant," "Flying into Los Angeles," "Motorcycle," and "City of New Orleans," are some of the most popular recordings of Guthrie. Tickets for this show are available by calling (815) 338-5300.

'Tunes at Noon'

The Chicago Music Mart at State and Jackson continues its concert series that are free and open to the public in the concourse level performance center. The month off September is National Piano Month and Classical Music Month. All performances begin at noon. On Friday, Sept. 15, Asbury Brass Quintet; Sept. 16, Classical Symphony from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and Protégé Philharmonic from 2 to 5 p.m.; Sept. 18, Roosevelt University, Young Artist Series; Sept. 19, Bill Simmons, classical guitarist; Sept. 20, Jose Pennera, Latin jazz pianist; and Sept. 21, Chicago Concert Artists Series. For further information call Janice Javors at (312) 362-6950.

Cruising Hawaiian Style

by JIM WARNKEN,
PRESIDENT, NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

An 1886 maritime law, called the "Jones Act", limits your choices for cruising between Hawaii's four main islands.

Quite simply, the law provides that only an American flag ship vessel, which had to be built in the U.S., owned by U.S. citizens, and staffed by an American crew, can sail from one U.S. port to another without first stopping at a foreign port. Since American Hawaii Cruises owns the last two American Flag ship passenger vessels, they pretty much have the market to themselves.

There are a few Cruise lines, (i.e. Carnival, Princess and Holland America), who stop in Hawaii while repositioning their ships to Alaska via Canada, or on their way to Tahiti, thus satisfying the "Foreign Port" requirement.

But for the real Hawaiian experience, American Hawaii Cruises (AHC), is your best bet.

This week we'll look at the Independence, one of AHC's two ships. At first you may question the wisdom of cruising on a ship built in 1951, which is also about a third the size of the new "mega-liners" sailing the Caribbean.

However, just this year AHC finished a $30 million restoration of the Independence (the ship only cost $25 million new). And with only 802 passengers to attend to, the American crew of the Independence has time to extend the "Aloha" feeling to all aboard. AHC didn't just improve the ships "creature-comforts". They totally "Hawaiianized" it to completely immerse passengers in the sights and sounds of Hawaii.

From her brightly painted, lei encircled, smokestacks on down, the Independence showcases the history and cultural of the Hawaiian Islands.

On board, you'll find a full time Hawaiian teacher who'll help you with Hawaiian language lessons, (maybe you'll even be able to pronounce a street name or two), lei-making, and understanding the Hawaiian culture.

The new "Kama'aina Lounge" houses an authentic Hawaiian exhibit. The Hawaii experience extends to the dining room where you'll enjoy top cuisine featuring regional favorites. You'll also be treated to Hawaiian style entertainment in the show room.

Shore excursions showcase the ecology and history of the islands rather than just the typical "tourist" spots.

If you're looking for total Hawaii experience, an American Hawaii Cruise is the way to go.

Recycling pro finds home at Prairie Crossing

Mark and Kelly Loughmiller are the newest residents at Prairie Crossing in Grayslake. They chose the Halsey model.

When Mark Loughmiller and his wife, Kelly, first found Prairie Crossing housing development in Grayslake, they were attracted by the sense of community, the open spaces, the gardens and the prairie restoration projects.

Prairie Crossing is a conservation community located along Routes 137, 120 and 45 at the northern edge of the Liberty Prairie Reserve. It began as the idea of the late conservationist Gaylord Donnelley and his wife, Dorothy. Plans are for 317 homes on 667 acres. More than 350 acres are devoted to gardens, prairies, pastures, farm fields, marshes and lakes.

CLAUDIA M. LENART
Regional Editor

"When we first came out here we were attracted by the idea; we liked the less dense housing situation," said Mark.

As the couple got to know more about the development they were impressed by the environmental building practices. As a recycling professional, Mark found himself right at home in a development which encourages recycling and energy conservation.

Mark is the recycling coordinator for SWALCO (Solid Waste Agency of Lake County). He first came to Lake County in 1991 as the first employee of the newly created SWALCO. Prior to that, he served as executive director of the Community Recycling Center in Champaign, the largest non-profit recycling operation in the state.

Coming up to Lake County from central Illinois was somewhat of a "culture shock" in terms of housing costs, said Mark. In Champaign, he had a mortgage of $300 per month. Here, he rented a house for $1,000 a month.

"It all evened out though, because the salaries are higher. But it was a culture shock," said Mark.

"When we first came out to Prairie Crossings, we wondered if we could afford to buy a house here," said Mark. When Shaw Homes introduced the 1,478-square-foot Halsey model at $180,000, the Loughmillers put down their deposit.

"That was a relief. When we knew we could afford to live here," said Mark. The Loughmillers moved into their new home this month.

Mark explained the energy efficiency of Prairie Crossing homes actually makes them more affordable in the long run. In the house he was renting, utility costs were high. He had an average monthly gas bill of $120 and electric ran about $1,000 per year. He expects bills at Prairie Crossing to be much lower.

"We figured through the reduction in utility costs, we could afford a little more housing costs," said Mark.

Prairie Crossing homes are constructed to reduce energy consumption by at least 50 percent. Shaw builds in energy efficiency in a number of ways. The homes have a higher insulation level. See PRAIRIE page B14 lation rating than is standard in most homes. The windows are double-glazed and insulated with a low-E film and inert argon gas between the two panes of glass. There is extra caulking on all seams, joints and ducts and tyvek is used as an outer barrier to prevent air infiltration through exterior walls.

Heating and cooling systems used in the homes were selected for their high energy-efficiency ratings. The homes also have 25 percent more windows than is standard, to maximize views as well as to utilize passive heating and cooling. Toilets are low flow and faucets have water-conserving aerators. Houses are also equipped with energy efficient fluorescent lighting in closets, bathrooms and kitchens. The Loughmillers increased the use of fluorescent lighting in their home.

"You might spend $15 for a fluorescent bulb, but it lasts longer and uses less energy," said Mark.

The Loughmillers have gone even further to reduce energy consumption. On the ceiling above the stairway, they put in a whole-house fan which draws the air up and pushes it out through the roof. They also purchased a water-conserving dishwasher and wash machine. The wash machine is front loading and uses about 10 gallons per load of laundry as compared to about 50 for a conventional washer.

"The appliances cost more in the beginning, but you're going to save money over the lifespan," said Mark.

Another special feature the Loughmillers added is a composting sink which catches vegetable waste in a bin so it's easy to take to the Prairie Crossing composting center. A feature in all Prairie Crossing homes is the built-in recycling bin in each kitchen.

There are numerous other environmentally-sound practices employed by Prairie Crossing. One aspect which impressed

Mark is the reduction of V.O.C.s (volatile organic compounds) found in solvents, paints and adhesives. Mark said when looking at other housing developments, he often would leave with an allergic reaction to the V.O.C.s.

As a former manager of bicycle shops down in Champaign, Mark is appreciative of the system of bike trails which run through Prairie Crossing and which will eventually link up to a larger regional system.

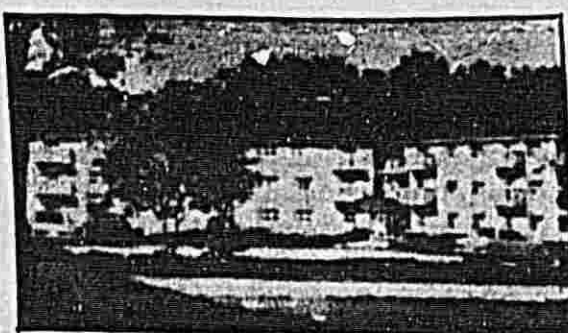

While the Loughmillers are impressed with conservation practices in Prairie Crossings, what they're most impressed with in their new home is the Use electricity properly to prevent accidents

Electricity is the servant of modern man. It heats, cools, lights, and helps us clean our homes; it freezes our food and provides us with the information and entertainment of radio and television. However, this "good and faithful servant" must be used properly to prevent accidents.

The number one cause of accidents is a lack of knowledge or skill. Here are some things all of us should know about electricity and electrical equipment.

First, be sure your home is wired correctly. Wiring should be installed and checked by a qualified electrician to comply with national codes as well as state and local ordinance. Appliances should be approved by Underwriters' Laboratories. Your home is inadequately wired if you notice any of the following symptoms:

- Lights dim when an appliance goes on
- Motors slow down
- Fuses blow or circuit breakers trip out frequently
- Toasters or irons fail to heat properly
- TV picture shrinks
- You're short of outlets

Fuses and circuit breakers shut off the current whenever too much of it tries to flow through a wire. This can result from a short circuit (bare wire touching a ground), overloading (too many lights or appliances on one circuit) or from a defective part in an appliance or other equipment.

If a fuse blows, try to find the cause and correct it. Pull the main switch and replace the burned out fuse with a new one of the correct size. Turn on the main switch.

If the fuse blows again, make another check for the cause. If you can't find the problem, call an electrician. Circuit breakers, which are more convenient than fuses, automatically turn off if something goes wrong. Once the trouble is fixed, simply reset the switch. Cords are another potential source of trouble.

Be sure you have the right type for the equipment you're using, such as heavy duty for tools or moisture resistant for outdoor work. Worn cords can cause short circuits, shocks and even fires.

- Don't place cords where someone will trip over them or where they will get excessive wear

- Don't pull a cord to disconnect a plug, pull the plug itself

- Do keep cords away from heat and water

- Do inspect cords often for wear, especially at plugs and connections

At this time of year, many of us are busy with outdoors chores, so here are a few hints to help you perform those tasks safely:

- Keep ladders, especially metal ones, away from electric lines

- Never use electric tools outside in rain or on wet surfaces

- Use electric power mowers on dry grass only

Wear shoes when using an electric lawn mower or hedge clipper. If you remember and practice these safety tips, you will help ensure that electricity will continue to serve you.

Fireplace inspection, upkeep essential to safety and fun

As the fall air begins to set in, many Lake County residents turn to their wood-burning fireplaces for warmth and beauty never suspecting that a deadly fire may result. Fatal housefires caused by faulty and dirty woodburning fireplaces occur every winter, yet tragically, many of these fires are preventable.

One of the leading causes of these fires are flaws created from unprofessional workmanship and assembly, said Earl Oliver, district council president. For example, a poorly constructed chimney will result in cracks in the mortar of the flue.

After as little as a year of use, a brand new fireplace will collect tar-like resin, or creosote. Flames from the fire will ignite the creosote covered walls in the flue. If any leaks exist in the flue, the fire will spread from the chimney to the rest of the house.

The Chicago area Carpenters Union encourages potential homebuyers to consider these suggestions to ensure fireplace safety:

The best indication of quality installation and workmanship is a union built and constructed home.

- Union-built homes provide the exceptional quality construction due to well-trained craftsmen.

- Union bricklayers install finely made fireplaces, including a carefully constructed flue.

- Union carpenters create quality framing for your fireplace, which includes flame resistant dry wall.

In addition to checking for quality union construction, potential homebuyers should consider a professional home inspection.

- Insist the home inspector checks for cracks within the flue of the chimney.

- Investigate the type of materials the homebuilders used, flame resistant drywall next to the fireplace can help reduce the spread of fire, whereas the use of paneling without drywall is extremely dangerous.

- Inquire into the fireplace safety standards enacted by each city, township, and village. Regulations vary from town to town and many municipalities do not regularly inspect fireplaces.

Homeowners can protect their homes and families from the fire and get the most heat out of their wood-burning fireplaces by following this handy checklist:

- Have a chimney sweep come in and clean your fireplace at least once every year. This will help prevent creosote buildup and reduce the chance of fire.

- Improve fireplace efficiency by installing heat-tempered glass doors that you can close as the fire dies. This will keep the warm air in the house from blowing out the chimney.

- Install a chimney cap damper. This is a hinged lid controlled by a pull chain in the chimney of a old house without a flue damper. The cap damper will help keep the warm air inside and the cold air outside.

Editor's note: Earl Oliver is president of the Chicago and Northeast District Council of Carpenters, which with 130 years of union organizing and leadership, offers a proud history from today's advances in wages, health care, pensions, training and market expansion programs, back to 1867, when Carpenters led the fight for the eight-hour day. With more than 30,000 active members, the strength of the District Council of Carpenters is legendary.

Wall world map triggers new interest in murals

Imagine your family room or home office in a waterfall setting, a misty forest or a baseball park.

You can do that with easy-to-apply wall murals, a do-it-yourself project that adds excitement and beauty.

One wall mural manufacturer offers an assortment of murals ranging from the above scenes to a Hawaiian sunset and an Oriental garden.

Wall murling isn't new, but it's gaining in popularity as householders seek ways to enliven plain walls or windowless rooms that are on the drab side.

Environmental Graphics, a Minnesota company specializing in unusual wall graphics, is offering a wall-size world map to give an international flair to home decor.

A company spokesperson declared, "It's only recently that Americans have discovered mural maps. It's a trend that was probably triggered by the British look. Once we discovered the look of English country homes, it was inevitable we would discover maps as a decorative tool."

Playing on this trend, Environmental Graphics have developed a giant world map mural, printed in eight colors, and featuring authentic cartography. It measures 8 feet 8 inches tall by 13 feet wide, and if that weren't enough, this mural is repeatable, so it can be run all the way around a room.

Developed with the assistance of the U.S. Department of Defense, the "Executive World Map" mural is tremendously detailed, indicating time zones, ocean depths, nautical routes, land elevations, political boundaries, as well as traditional geographic information.

The company notes how ironic it is that the new interest in maps comes at a time when people, and students in particular, seem to know less about geography. Yet, people are traveling more, and we see area maps in the news every day. Environmental Graphics hopes their map will help put everything into perspective.

The "Executive World Map" mural is a "dry-erase" product that allows you to write on it with colored markers. They report that it has become a best-seller not just in homes, but also schools and business offices. The company notes that the "Executive World Map" mural finds its way into family rooms, as often as a kid's spaces.

"In family rooms, frequent travelers often mark past and future destinations," says the company. "After all, one reason people are drawn to maps is that they relate to personal experiences. People like to find places they've visited, or where their ancestors came from."

The map comes in eight panels that hang like wallpaper. Any region of the world can be the central point, and it can be trimmed for smaller walls, and around existing wall features such as electrical outlets.

Maps that aren't for getting somewhere are hot items for the home. Maps have a built-in aesthetic value. The map shown is a "dry-erase" project that allows you to write on it with colored markers.

One unique place to put this map is in a hallway, suggests the company. "It's hard sometimes to do something interesting with hallways. Our 'Executive World Map' fills the bill. A hallway location lets you study the map at very close distance."

"And let's not forget the home office," adds the company.

"Over 20 million Americans now work out of their home, and it's hard to imagine a better professional image than the one the giant 'Executive World Map' conveys."

REVIEW Even Republicans will love 'Eleanor'

Marriott's Lincolnshire Theatre is presenting the little known musical "Eleanor." This reviewer, who has voted Republican most of her adult life, joined "Eleanor's" press night's audience in giving its star, Anne Kanengeiser, and the entire cast a standing ovation.

The first half of the show—which shows Eleanor as a shy young girl, scared to death of the Roosevelt family, especially the matriarch—had a freshness about it that disappeared in the second act which was just a rerun of happenings already done over and over in films, TV and on stage.

Kanengeiser and her co-star Larry Yando, plus the rest of the talented cast and the Marriott theatrical crew that almost always outshines the play itself, turn out to be the reasons we just couldn't get enough of their versions of Eleanor's and Franklin's early days.

Kanengeiser and Yost do their jobs well, since they look just enough like young Eleanor and Franklin. They also add a splash of the flavor of these two historical figures to their outstanding performances, without doing actual imitations.

This show boasts four experienced and expert scene stealers in Joel Hatch, who plays Roosevelt's right hand man; Ann Whitney who dominates even the audience as Roosevelt's controlling "Ma-ma"; Kathy Santen as the future President's pert paramour; and last but not least, Marriott favorite Don Forston and his blustery Teddy Roosevelt. Although the music of Thomas Tierney and John Forster is forgettable, it becomes an important part of the ambiance and romance that ended the idealistic Victorian era and led into the harsh roar of the 1920s in this production.

This aura is beautifully augmented by the grand set designs of Thomas M. Ryan and the gracious costumes of Nancy Missimi.

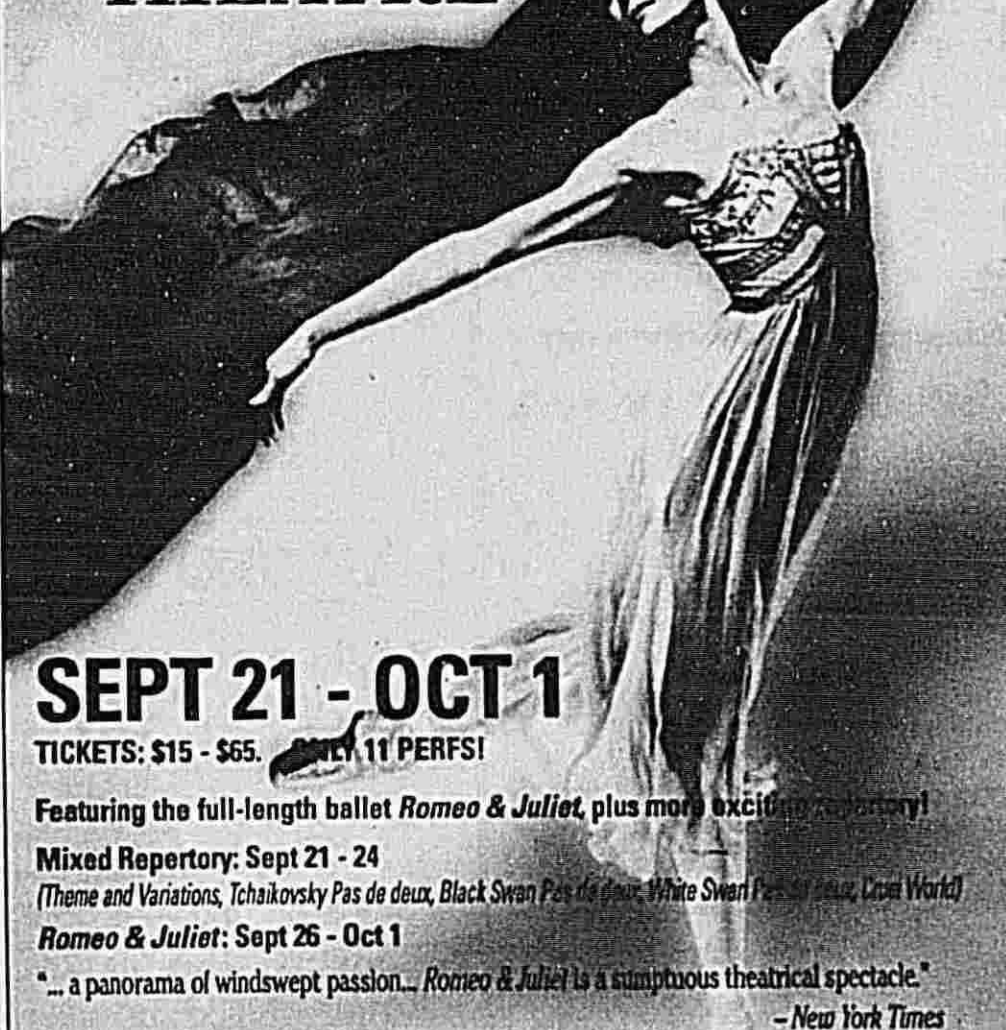

Who would have thought that the stuffy, square-jawed President we know from old newsreels and the rather frumpy, squeaky-voiced woman who seemed to have taken over Washington in the 1940s, were actually two young people in love at one time!

This is what this engaging and enchanting "romaplotitic" musical sings about. "Eleanor" is most capably directed by Joe Leonardo, choreographed by Rob Rahn with musical direction by Terry James.

"Eleanor" will be on the Marriott stage in Lincolnshire through Oct. 29.—by GLORIA DAVIS

DONNA ABEAR

Yea, though I walk through the valley of videotape...

Today's topic is videotape, which I am now convinced may be one of the roots of all evil. (Just ask the Los Angeles Police Dept., if you don't believe me. Thanks to videotape, everyone thinks they're racists who actually beat up suspects. Imagine that!)

I realized this just last week, when I purchased a videotape of "The Wizard of Oz" for a mere $16. Think about it—$16 for a copy of the most wonderful movie ever made. Not only that, I made the purchase with my credit card (the other root of all evil), which means that even though I had no money with me, I could still buy the movie and pay for it later, in easy installments, with only 17.9 percent interest, for the rest of my natural life.

I know what you're thinking, "Donna—have you been picking your own mushrooms?"

Of course not. What I'm getting at is "instant gratification." We live in a society today where we don't have to wait for anything any more, unless of course you're standing in line at a state driver's license facility.

For example, when I was a child, my brothers and I could hardly contain our excitement each year as the time would approach for the annual broadcast of "The Wizard of Oz." The whole family would gather in front of the TV together to watch Dorothy follow the yellow brick road to find the Wizard, aided by her pals the Scarecrow, the Tin Man and the Cowardly Lion. I, of course, was hiding behind a chair, from which I would pop out every so often, cackling, "I'll get you and your little dog, too!"

In comparison, I watched my videotape copy of "The Wizard of Oz" with my daughter Samantha the other day, and she is as enthralled with it as I was back then (she already has the witch cackle down pat—a chip off the old block). The difference is, she now wants to watch it every day, and it will only be a matter of time before she is bored silly.

And that's the point. Watching "The Wizard of Oz" was a long-anticipated special event for the whole family back then. Now my daughter simply screams, "O! O! O!" and I pop in the videotape and welcome the fact that I will not have to rescue the cat from her for approximately two hours. It's just not the same.

Going to the movies has lost some of its thrill, too, since we know that it will soon be out on videotape anyway. I remember when my mom first let me go to the movies alone. I felt so grown up as I rode my bike to the theater to see "Gone With the Wind." When the lights came on and the word "Intermission" flashed across the screen, I raced home on my bike to tell Mom all about the movie.

"By the way, Mom, what does 'intermission' mean? I thought when the movie was over, it was supposed to say 'The End'?"

Dearest Mom, in an effort not to embarrass me, only snickered for five minutes instead of 10, after which she said, "You dodo! You left in the middle of the movie!" Still, you can bet I remembered what the word "intermission" meant since I had to wait several years to see the rest of the movie.

Too bad our kids won't be learning any meaningful lessons like that. And it's not just kids who've been affected. I mean, just what is it that guys do at bachelor parties these days? With X-rated movies like "Rin Tin Tin and the Cheerleaders" available at every video store, they've had to look for new forms of entertainment (I hear Tupperware parties are gaining in popularity).

I guess with any gain in technological advancement, a bit more innocence is lost. For instance, if the movie "The Wizard of Oz" came out today, and Dorothy said her most famous line—you know the one, where she steps out of her black and white world and walks around Munchkinland in brilliant Technicolor for several minutes before whispering, "Toto—I have a feeling we're not in Kansas any more"—it's not hard to imagine how a 1995 audience of videotape junkies would respond.

"Yo—Dorothy! What was your first clue?"

Pizza cookoff this weekend

CLAUDIA M. LENART

Regional Editor

The finals of the 1995 Chef Cuisine Pizza Cook-Off will take place at the Annual Chef Cuisine Benefit, 3 to 8 p.m., Sunday, at Midlane Country Club, 14565 Yorkhouse Road, Wadsworth. The annual event is sponsored by the Victory Hospital Foundation and benefits HealthReach Clinic, a non-profit community volunteer effort for the medically underserved.

Both amateur and professional chefs will vie for the title. And if just thinking about it, gets your tastebuds watering, try this recipe from the Dairy Farmers of Wisconsin

Wisconsin 4-cheese pizza

1 1/4 cups crushed tomatoes

3 tablespoons Wisconsin Parmesan cheese, grated

1/4 teaspoon basil leaves, dry, crushed

9 ounces pizza crust dough, proofed (or Boboli or prepared crust)

1/2 cup Italian sausage, crumbled, browned and drained

3/4 cup mushrooms, sliced

1/4 cup Wisconsin Asiago cheese, grated

1/3 cup green pepper, chopped

3/4 cup Wisconsin Provolone cheese, shredded

1 cup Wisconsin Mozzarella cheese, shredded

Make sauce: Mix crushed tomatoes with Wisconsin Parmesan cheese, basil and oregano. Shape dough into 12-inch round crusts, using 9 ounces of dough for each. Ladle sauce over crust, spread evenly. Top pizza with sausage, mushrooms, and remaining cheeses. Bake in a conventional oven at 400 degrees for 15 to 18 minutes until crust is crisp and golden.

Movie Pick

'Magic in the Water' makes no big splash

Mark Harmon, a Hollywood and TV hunk who can lay claim to the title of "The Sexiest Man Alive," stars in one of the last family summer movies to open, "Magic in the Water."

Harmon, who has been around for awhile, has done some good things, like his now-defunct TV series, "Reasonable Doubts," and also the night-time soap, "Flamingo Road," as well as the "Ted Bundy Story." He seems to have trouble getting good big-screen material, with the "Presidio" an exception.

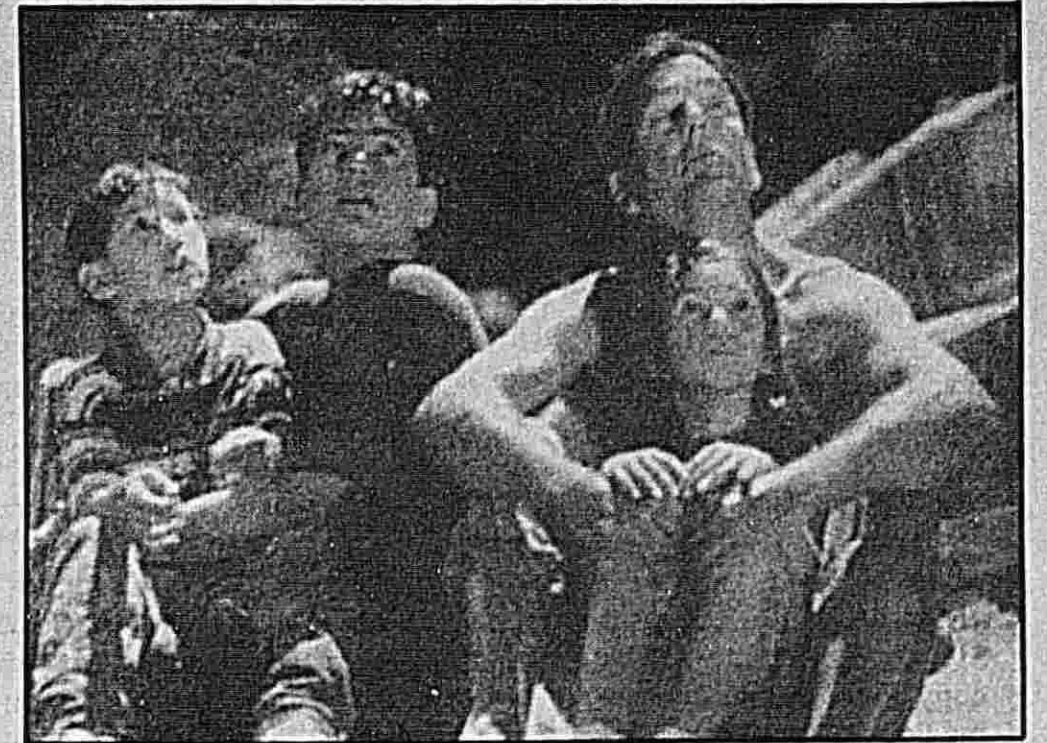

"Magic," is another one of his bad choices in which he and the rest of the cast do well, but not good enough to offset this really faulty flick.

Harmon, a divorced dad, takes his kids on a vacation to the Canadian wilds, where they find that not all the beasts in the area are normal animals. Reports are that the lake they are vacationing on is the home of a serpentine sea monster.

And guess what? It loves the creme filling from Oreo cookies Harmon's daughter, played by Sarah Wayne, always leaves for it.

Harmon is a workaholic psychiatrist who finds himself unable to get off the cellular phone long enough to listen to his daughter's tales about the "thing" in the lake that looks somewhat like the head and neck of a dinosaur.

If this was the extent of the plot, with Daddy finally waking up and saving his family from his little girl's new pet (which is not as dangerous as many of the male townspeople who claim that they have unknown beings living inside of them) "Magic" would have been a corny but OK, PG-rated family flick.

Instead, the powers that be in Hollywood found it necessary to bring in to many side-plots such as the dumping of hazardous waste, or a nut living next door to their vacation cabin and the female psychiatrist who works with the crazy males.

It soon becomes almost impossible, to keep up with the sub-sub-plotlines, and our sweet family story almost disappears because of them.

The competent cast has this reviewer wanting to give this movie, directed by Rick Stevenson, a better rating, but there's too much garbage flying around obscuring the core of the story to do any better than two out of five stars.—by GLORIA DAVIS

Leisure Point earns reputation of fine food with casual attire

For a wonderful evening out with your family or that special someone, visit Leisure Point in Fox Lake, where the customer is the first priority.

Diners at Leisure Point will enjoy a marvelous view of the lake, along with magnificent food. The restaurant seats 120 for dinner, and the large bar and lounge that houses a large screen TV seats up to 90 people.

Leisure Point's dinner specialties include a variety of delicious entrees, including Filet Vesuvio, prime rib, filet mignon, barbecued ribs, thick pork chops, and fish specials like grilled salmon pineapple burre boanc. Try Leisure Point's house dressing on your salad or one of their homemade soups. Hot bread is provided with each entree. To whet your appetite, sample some delicious appetizers from the menu. Shrimp cocktail, potato skins, calamari, buffalo wings, and Oysters Rockefeller, are a few favorites to choose from. And don't forget to order the perfect wine to complement your meal from Leisure Point's extensive wine list.

The perfect ending to a fantastic meal would be a tantalizing dessert like Dutch apple pie, key lime pie, and cheesecake.

Wednesday night at Leisure Point is Mexican Night, when they feature a variety of Mexican specialties, all homemade on the premises, such as steak fajitas, enchiladas, quesadillas, and more.

If you can't wait for the dinner hour to enjoy the food at Leisure Point, you'll be glad to know they're open for lunch, also.

Leisure Point is a great place for any special occasion. They offer special menus for many occasions such as Easter, Mother's Day, Valentine's Day, and New Year's Eve, to name a few, and often provide entertainment for such occasions.

For truly "fine dining with casual attire," visit Leisure Point, 200 Forest in Fox Lake, 973-0235. Leisure Point is open seven days a week from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m., and weekends until 3 a.m. Gift certificates are available. All major credit cards accepted.

RJ's the place for food, fun & friends

RJ's Eatery, located on beautiful Sand Lake at 1913 E. Grand Ave. in Lindenhurst, is home to Bears fans this season. Featuring three television sets in the bar area, RJ's offers a half-time sampler that can't be beat. Free samples of RJ's renowned specialty pizza as well as the many other excellent menu items highlight the break between action.

And speaking of RJ's renowned homemade pizza, look for RJ's pizza of the week to be introduced in the near future.

The restaurant's homemade pizza is "simply the best" and includes your choice of homemade thin crust, double decker, or pan pizza. Choose from a large selection of toppings that are always fresh. Be adventurous and try one of RJ's Specialty Pizzas: Super Italian, All Veggie, Mexican, Three-Cheese, or RJ's Special. Come in on Tuesday for all-you-can-eat pizza night.

Looking for a change of pace, visit RJ's for Friday's fare which includes the delicious all-you-can-eat fish fry for only $6.95. That price also includes your choice of potato and soup.

There is still plenty of warm weather left to enjoy RJ's brand new screened-in deck which overlooks Sand Lake. The deck seats approximately 50 and features the full menu. It's the perfect place to enjoy autumn's splendor.

RJ's Eatery's atmosphere, along with the courteous and friendly staff, will make your dining experience a memorable one, and keep you coming back for more. Another feature of RJ's is the Outback Bar, a great place to meet friends.

You'll always find something you like at RJ's, whether it's the 1/2 lb. burgers, delicious ribs, or Mexican and Italian specialties.

Financial checklist: Evaluating your investment portfolio

Some people create investment portfolios the same way they approach buying furniture. After a few years and a couple of moves they realize they have a house full of chairs, sofas and end tables, but nothing matches or seems to fit. The furniture they've collected over the years becomes inappropriate for their current lifestyle.

The same thing can happen when building an investment portfolio. Over time, financial conditions and goals can change, making the allocation of assets in a portfolio inappropriate for the person's current situation.

The following are steps investors should consider when reviewing their portfolios:

Step 1. Going for the goal. Re-evaluate savings and investment goals. The most common financial goals are saving for retirement, a child's education or a home. Try to estimate the future costs associated with these goals and the amount of time needed to save the money. Before putting aside money for goals, create a separate emergency fund in case of a job loss or medical expenses.

Step 2. Made to measure. Based on what you know about your financial situation, goals, tolerance for risk and time horizon, devise an appropriate asset allocation for your portfolio. Asset allocation is the strategic diversification of investments across asset classes such as stocks, bonds and cash.

Step 3. Old vs. new. Compare the asset allocation of the newly devised portfolio with the make-up of your existing portfolio. This comparison will help determine if one is being too aggressive or conservative with investments.

Step 4. Reality check. Investors must have realistic expectations about how much they can save and the probable return on money invested. If you make $2,000 a month and your savings plan calls for you to set aside $1,500 each paycheck, you'll probably fall short of your goal.

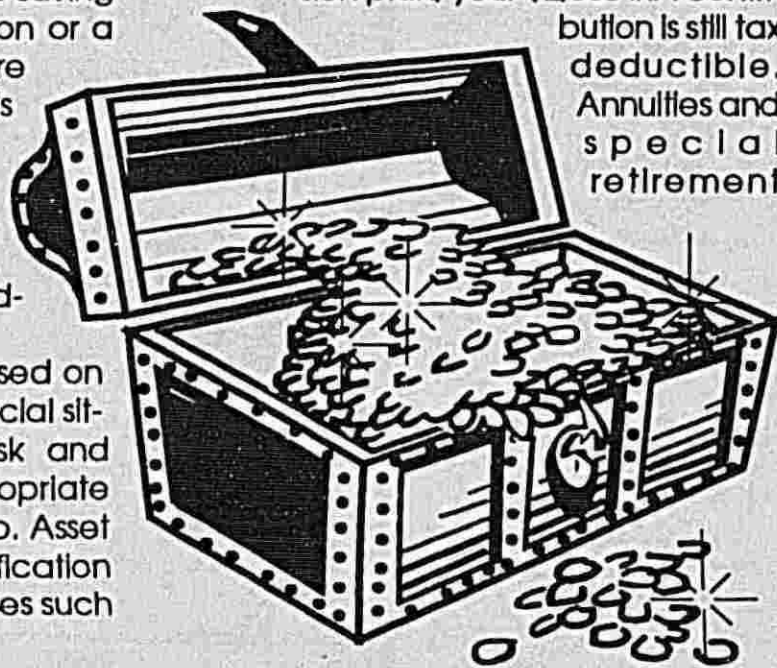

Step 5. Avoiding the tax bite. Consider how tax-advantaged investments fit in your portfolio. People who participate in 401(k) plans can set aside pre-tax plans can set aside pre-tax dollars for retirement. If not covered by a company pension plan, your $2,000 IRA contribution is still tax deductible. Annuities and special retirement plans for the self-employed also offer tax benefits.

Step 6. Further refinement. An investment risk can be managed further by diversifying within each asset class. If you determine that 60 percent of your portfolio should be in equities, consider spreading this portion of your investments over several different stock funds. This extra level of diversification give protection from the inevitable fluctuations of individual stocks and stock mutual funds.

Step 7. Back in balance. Regularly check your target asset allocation and re-balance accordingly. Rebalancing allows maintenance of the desired risk tolerance level. Most experts say investors must review their portfolios at least once a year or when faced with goal and/or lifestyle changes.

Horoscope

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) This week brings new insights into a financial concern that's been on your mind. A cycle favorable to your work interests also begins. Something at home could upset you as the week progresses.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You'll have more time to spend with children or a romantic interest in the coming weeks. This week, too, brings happy social developments as you are at your popular and charismatic best. This weekend, use caution when driving.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You may be very involved with home improvements in the weeks ahead. However, don't neglect what must be done at work. Persistence leads to a career success. Don't squabble with loved ones over money this weekend.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Your communicative skills will be tops in the coming weeks. You'll be reaching important agreements and perhaps signing some significant contracts. Be patient on the job. Enjoy social opportunities this weekend.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Chances to improve your income will arise in the weeks just ahead. A new approach leads to career gains this week. However, you don't see eye to eye with an adviser. Follow your own instincts instead since they are leading you in the right direction.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A humanitarian concern may take up more of your time in the coming weeks than you had originally anticipated. An inspiration early in the week leads to a productive spurt for you. Be tactful when dealing with grouchy superiors.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You'll be more sure of yourself in the weeks ahead. A new start is definitely on your agenda. This week, the accent's on teamwork and you manage to get everyone motivated. However, don't force an issue with a friend.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A cycle of increased popularity begins for you this week. You'll want to do something different now regarding entertainment. However, different doesn't necessarily have to mean expensive. This weekend, you are impatient with loved ones.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) The weeks just ahead will bring major business developments. Some could even find themselves contemplating a complete career change. This week, you have the urge to redecorate your home. Don't allow weekend tension to escalate into an argument.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A new cultural interest could fascinate you in the weeks ahead. Also, a new adviser could be coming into your life very soon. Enjoy social visits now, but avoid a romantic spat with a jealous lover this weekend.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You'll have more money at your disposal in the weeks ahead. However, don't allow your gregarious side to lead you into too much spending on pleasure. You still need to watch your pennies. You have a product week on the job.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You could be signing an important contract in the near future. However, a competitor is right on your heels and needs to be dealt with. Matters at a distance are favored, but keep peace with the family.

Financial checklist: Evaluating your investment portfolio

Some people create investment portfolios the same way they approach buying furniture. After a few years and a couple of moves they realize they have a house full of chairs, sofas and end tables, but nothing matches or seems to fit. The furniture they've collected over the years becomes inappropriate for their current lifestyle.

The same thing can happen when building an investment portfolio. Over time, financial conditions and goals can change, making the allocation of assets in a portfolio inappropriate for the person's current situation.

Fibromyalgia patients don't have time for pain

Persistent muscle soreness which concentrates in distinct tender points can be both exhausting and fatiguing. The Fibromyalgia Center at Lake Forest Hospital's Center for Rehabilitation, understands that fibromyalgia is a real cause of chronic pain and fatigue and that it is not a crippling disease.

Fibromyalgia continues to baffle and elude the medical community because so many of its symptoms are also common with other conditions. Often doctors arrive at a diagnosis of fibromyalgia by ruling out these other possibilities. Sometimes family and friends, even some physicians may see normal results and not fully understand what fibromyalgia sufferers are enduring.

The September Fibromyalgia Support Group provides individuals with fibromyalgia and their spouses or significant others the opportunity to share insights with others who are experiencing the same frustrations and distress. The next meeting of the Fibromyalgia Support Group will be held on Thursday, September 21 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Lake Forest Health and Fitness Institute and feature psychologist, Dr. Neil Mahoney; occupational therapist, Kathy Kiselica and rheumatologist, Dr. Robert Hozman.

To request additional information on any part of the three special programs that the Fibromyalgia Center has to offer, call 234-6132. The Fibromyalgia Center offers the professional staff, the moral support and the proactive programs that fibromyalgia patients need to cope and thrive with the diagnosis of this disease.

Blood donations reach record

Responding to the seasonal drop-off in blood donations, thousands of Abbott Laboratories' Lake County employees participated in a record-setting, company-sponsored blood drive, donating approximately 4,000 units of blood over a three-week period beginning in August.

Abbott works with local blood banks to help maintain critical blood supply levels during the last summer season, which is traditionally one of the lowest blood donation periods of the year.

"For a variety of reasons, blood donations usually drop off in late August," explains Tom Brown, vice president, diagnostic commercial operations, and chairman of Abbott's 1995 campaign. "Abbott's annual blood drive helps the blood banks offset this fluctuation and meet the needs of hospitals and clinics throughout the Chicagoland metropolitan area."

Over 25 percent of Abbott's Lake County employees donated during the drive.

Amendments made to Organ Donation Act

Since Governor Edgar signed into law several amendments to the Illinois Organ Donation Request Act, the Hospital Licensing Act will improve the rate of organ donation and transplantation in Illinois.

The legislative changes address issues relating to organ donation for hospitals as well as organ procurement organizations (OPOs), according to Jarold A. Anderson, president of the Regional Organ Bank of Illinois (ROBI) in Chicago. ROBI is the federally designated OPO servicing hospitals in the northern three-fourths of Illinois and northwest Indiana.

"For hospitals and ROBI, these amendments will go a long way toward providing more families with the opportunity to donate and, ultimately, toward providing more organs and tissues for transplantation," Anderson said.

According to Anderson, the law now requires hospitals to refer all medically suitable potential organ donors to its federally designated OPO. The law also calls for the OPO staff to approach families of all potential organ donors for consent to donate.

"Since ROBI began in 1987, we have had mechanisms in place in all of the hospitals we serve to approach families with the option of donation," Anderson said. "Each hospital has its own unique system. In some hospitals, for example, we approach families as part of a team of trained nurses, clergy and physicians. While we encourage this system, some hospitals prefer to have ROBI staff approach the families directly."

Anderson notes another aspect of these amendments is that hospitals are protected under the Medical Studies Act for providing OPOs, tissue and/or eye banks with access to medical records for review. "This law allows ROBI to have access to data for estimating the hospital's potential for organ and tissue donation," he said. "Access to these data also will help ROBI in verifying the hospital's actual number of organ/tissue referrals and donation cases, and identifying the need for donation education within the hospital."

"Each of these changes assures a mechanism for access to organs for donation and transplantation," Anderson said. "The need for donated organs is increasing at an alarming rate in ROBI's service area. As of August 1, 1994, ROBI's waiting list was 1,749. As of August 1, 1995, the waiting list was 2,263. That's nearly a 30 percent increase in one year."

Saint Therese to host casino night

Join the fun—Klinger, Trapper John and Hawkeye wannabes will be front and center at the Saint Therese Medical Center Casino Night Oct. 6 and 7 from 6 p.m. to midnight.

This year the theme for the annual event is the TV sitcom MASH. Wear your old fatigues and join the gaming tables—poker, blackjack, roulette and 50/50 raffles. Parking is free, admission is $5. Proceeds go to the hospital. In previous years, the funds helped purchase a van for rehab patients and kitchen equipment for the hospital.

For information, call 360-2183.

Laughing cure at HP Hospital

Comedienne and author Susan Vass will explore the mind-body connection between laughter and health in her lecture "Laughing Your Way to Good Health", Tuesday, Sept. 19, 7 p.m., in the Education Center at Highland Park Hospital.

Participants will learn that easing stress, strengthening the immune system, and the release of natural painkillers can all be achieved through laughter.

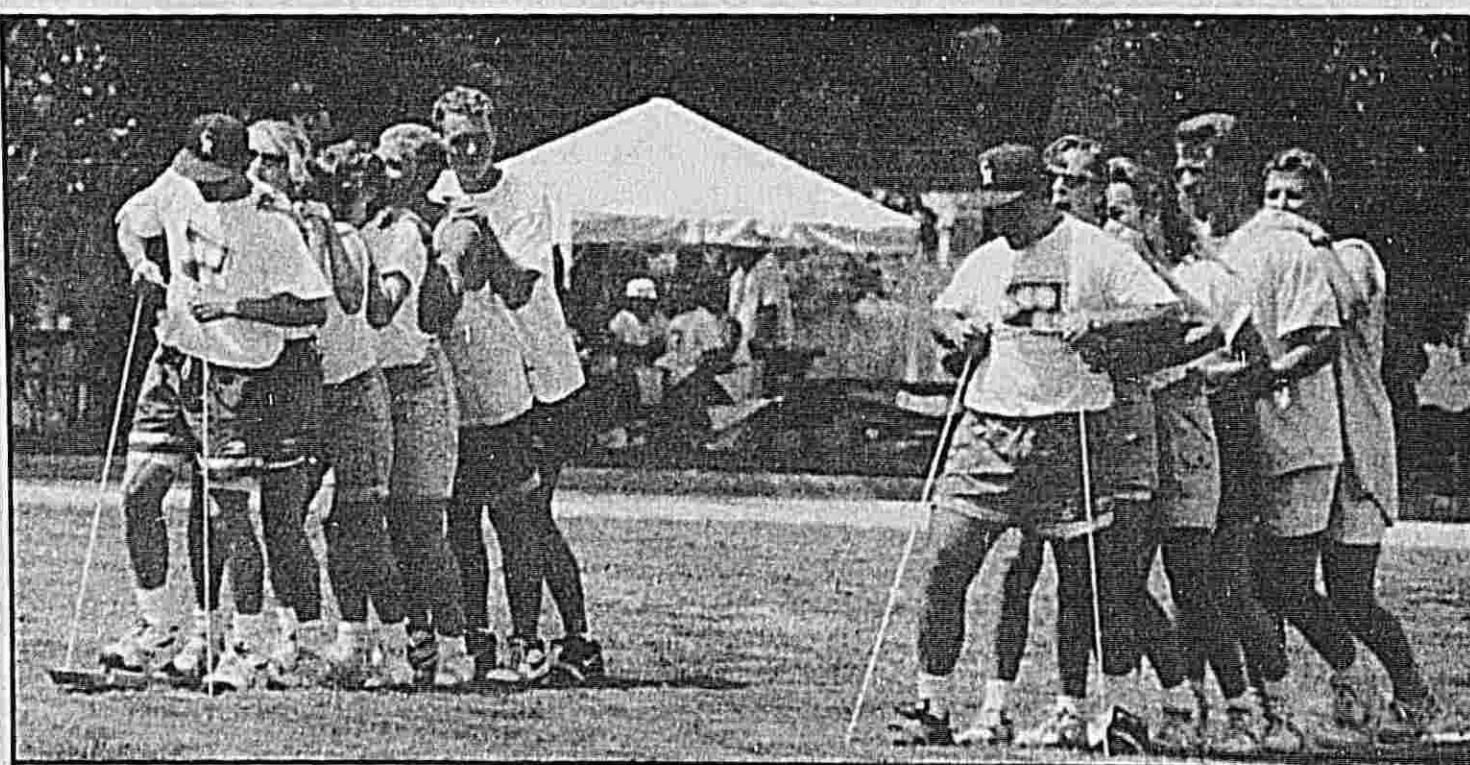

Vass has presented her perspective on life, marriage, motherhood, dieting and exercise in more than 1500 appearances across the country.

In addition to writing the book Laughing Your Way to Good Health, Vass has appeared with national acts such as Robert Goulet, the Smothers Brothers and Doc Severinson.

Tickets for "Laughing Your Way to Good Health" are $5 per person and must be purchased in advance. For more information, call 480-2722.

'Healthy Stepfamily' discussion series set

"Healthy Stepfamily" discussion series will be starting on Sept. 20. Topics will deal with the unique issues and challenges facing blended families. "Healthy Stepfamily" will be held on Wednesday evenings, 7 to 8:30 p.m., at the Barrington Area Library, 505 N. Northwest Highway, Barrington. The program is facilitated by the Tri-Agency Network (Family Service Agency of North Lake County, Family Service of South Lake County, Youth and Family Counseling). For information and to register, call 662-4464.

It happened

"Make It Happen... together" was the theme of the first Healthy Kemper Games. That is exactly what teams of company employees did. The teams pictured competed in team skiing, as well as a host of other activities designed to be healthy fun. Sponsored by the Kemper National Insurance Companies, the games raised more than $6,000 for the US Olympic Committee.

Heart Association asks residents to 'have a heart'

Can you name the risk factors for heart disease and stroke? Do you know what aerobic exercise is? Do you eat a heart-healthy diet? Do you know what the future of your health care will be?

Whether you answer yes or no to these questions, whether you know a lot or a little, the American Heart Association's Lake County Division has information that will help you maintain a lifestyle that's good for your heart. The third annual "Have a Heart Workshop," dedicated to health and wellness, will take place on Saturday, Sept. 16 at Gideon Missionary Baptist Church, 1500 Ridgeland Rd., Waukegan from 8:45 a.m. to 1 p.m. Participants will choose four of six mini-classes offered in various areas of heart health. The workshop is designed to cover both prevention and intervention in the fight against heart disease and stroke.

The "Risk Factors" class helps identify your risk for high blood pressure or heart disease and shows you how to reduce your risk.

"Nutrition" gives information about the ways that diet affects heart and circulation. It also gives helpful tips on modifying high fat recipes to make them healthier and better tasting.

"Stress Management" deals with identifying stressors in our lives and suggests positive outlets to relieve stress.

"The 'Exercise' class will inform participants about the effects of exercise on health and well-being and help you identify the types of exercise most appropriate for you age and physical condition.

"Medications" will explain how drugs control different types of heart diseases, explain their common side effects and give useful tips in monitoring your prescriptions.

"Health Care Reform-How and Who Will Pay For It?" Will identify state and federal plans available and how to access medical services in a cost-effective way.

Each class is led by health professionals and provides a question and answer session. The workshop was developed by the Church-Based Hypertension Committee of the AHA in Lake County, who three years ago realized the need to reach out to the population and provide health information to the community.

"We were overwhelmed by the turnout at past workshops and we've gotten a lot of positive feedback" said event chairperson Darlene Williams of Gideon Missionary Baptist Church. "Participants receive a lot of useful information. Even those who already have some knowledge find it useful. People are both educated and re-educated" she said.

Thirteen area churches are actively participating in the health education activities of AHA's Church-Based Hypertension Program and are sponsoring the half-day event.

Participating churches are:

Antioch Baptist Church, Mt. Zion Baptist Church, Shiloh Baptist Church, St. John Baptist Church, Gideon M.B. Baptist Church, Greater Faith Baptist Church, and St. Joseph/St. Bartholomew Church of Waukegan; Christian Valley Baptist, First Corinthian Missionary Baptist, St. James Temple, and Mt. Sinai Baptist of North Chicago; and Mt. Zion Missionary Baptist and Enenezer Baptist of Zion. Members of participating churches should contact their health education coordinators for a registration form.

Williams points out, however, that you do not have to be a church member to attend. "The health information offered is important for everyone in Lake County. We can all benefit from taking better care of our hearts", she said.

To register for the free half-day "Have a Heart" workshop, call the American Heart Association Lake County Division office at 362-0808.

How estrogen shapes lives

Estrogen—the very sound of the word has a soft, feminine lilt, suggesting the subtle power of the hormone that defines female form and function.

From preteen years throughout the reproductive years, estrogen shapes the female body and fine tunes fertility. Despite the immense importance of estrogen, it is often misunderstood. Estrogen gets blamed for just about everything troublesome about being a woman—from menstrual miseries (false) to extra padding on the thighs (somewhat true).

Aside from these misunderstandings, there is little doubt that estrogen has a huge impact on our bodies and our lives. While its diminishing levels may be disruptive, they should help us to appreciate the amazing power of the hormone that made us what we are today. Surprisingly, no one knows exactly what starts the arrival of menopause. Symptoms vary woman to woman. Hot flashes, the most common sign of decreasing estrogen, can be nonexistent in some women. Other common symptoms, like vaginal dryness, moodiness and night sweats are usually relieved by estrogen.

Another worrisome effect is the acceleration of bone loss that may lead to osteoporosis later in life. Lack of estrogen is also implicated with an increase in the incidence of heart disease. And recent research reveals that estrogen may be useful in treating depression and Alzheimer's disease.

Hospice seeks volunteers

Hospice of the Great Lakes is looking for caring, sensitive volunteers to provide support to patients and families facing a life-threatening illness. Volunteers are a vital part of the team. No task is too big or too small, but the most important thing they can do is just "be there" for patients—to reassure them they are not alone, to hold a hand, or just to listen.

Hospice of the Great Lakes is holding free volunteer training programs throughout the Chicagoland area. The next program will begin Wednesday, Sept. 12 in Elmhurst at York Convalescent Center. For other training locations call Carrie Shearer at 559-8999 and find out how to become a valued member of a dedicated team.

Health dept. offers advice on reducing cholesterol

Knowledge is power, especially when it comes to knowing the benefit of monitoring blood cholesterol levels. Decreased risks for heart attacks, heart disease and stroke are three of the many reasons why lowering your cholesterol is so important. In Illinois alone, statistics show that nearly four million adults and three and one-half million children have elevated blood cholesterol levels. During National Cholesterol Education Month, in September, the Lake County Health Dept. urges this three-step program to low-cholesterol living:

1. Test your blood cholesterol levels.
2. Watch your diet.

3. Exercise.

The first step is to get tested for cholesterol levels. If your company health service or doctor does not offer these tests, screenings are often offered at health fairs. If your total amount of cholesterol exceeds 200 mg/dl, you are at increased risk and should consult your doctor for further recommendations.

Step two is to change your daily diet. Cholesterol comes from two sources: your body produces it and it is contained in some food you eat. While the body does need some cholesterol to digest food, make hormones and some vitamins, build cell walls, and help carry fat to parts of our body that may need it, it is having too much that increases your health risks. Limiting the amount of cholesterol, often found in the form of fat, ingested per day can reduce blood serum cholesterol levels. Choosing the type of fat you do ingest is also important.

1. Monounsaturated fats, found in olive oil and canola oil, can actually lower Low Density Lipoprotein cholesterol (LDL), the so-called "bad cholesterol" which clogs arteries, without lowering High Density Lipoprotein cholesterol (HDL), the "good cholesterol" which help remove the bad LDL cholesterol from your arteries.

2. Polyunsaturated fats such as sunflower or corn oil may lower both types of cholesterol.

3. Saturated fats from animal sources can raise cholesterol levels. Source of these fats include butter, lard, fatty meats, coconut oil, palm oil and partially hydrogenated oils.

Increasing soluble fiber in your diet is also important because fiber will actually lower your cholesterol levels by not allowing the cholesterol you do consume from being absorbed by the body. Good sources of soluble fiber include grains, beans, oats, cereals and fruit.

The final step in reducing your cholesterol is to watch your weight and exercise regularly.

When you are overweight, you carry more fat and cholesterol, which can cause your blood cholesterol levels to rise. A regular exercise program, which include aerobic exercise (such as walking, jogging or swimming) three to four times a week for at least half an hour, can raise the "good" HDL cholesterol, which removes the "bad" LDL cholesterol from your arteries.

Taking these three steps can bring you closer to a healthy lifestyle and put you back in charge of your own health. For more information on controlling your cholesterol, contact Toby Stern, registered dietitian for the Lake County Health Dept., at 360-6753.

Healthcare center opens in Mundelein

HealthCare Centers of Highland Park Hospital will host a grand opening celebration on Saturday, Sept. 16, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at its new medical campus, 550 N. Lake St. in Mundelein. The public is invited to attend.

The new center is staffed by skilled physicians and other licensed professionals who are backed by the resources of Highland Park Hospital. More than 30 insurance plans are accepted. Primary-care specialties and clinical services include family practice, obstetrics/gynecology, community health education, radiology services, laboratory services and occupational health services.

Primary-care physicians who have opened offices at the new center include obstetrician/gynecologists Nicole Menagakis, M.D., and Ruth Guth, M.D., of Highland Park Women's Health Care, as well as family practice physicians George Procento, M.D., and Timothy Poland, M.D., of Family Care Medical Group.

Hours for Highland Park Women's Health Care are Monday, Tuesday and Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Hours for Family Care Medical Group are Mondays and Fridays, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Tuesdays and Thursdays, 8:30 a.m. to 7 p.m.; and Saturdays, 8:30 a.m. to noon.

Hospital offers free prostate cancer exams

Take a step toward maintaining your health and have a free prostate screening Sept. 18 at Saint Therese Medical Center. Saint Therese is one of the U.S. locations that is offering the exam in conjunction with Prostate Cancer Awareness Week.

Between the hours of 6 and 8:30 p.m. a clinician and physician will conduct a prostate specific antigen (PSA) blood test and digital rectal exam (DRE) and provide information on early warning signs. The combination of the two tests is the most effective method for detecting prostate cancer at an early stage, before it has spread outside the prostate gland. Written materials will be available and you may ask questions.

The exam will take approximately 10 minutes and follow-up exams may be scheduled. According to the American Cancer Society and the American Urological Association, men older than 50 should have a prostate exam annually. It is estimated that 244,000 men will get prostate cancer.

Take advantage of this service to the men of the community and call 244-5900 for more information.

County employers sending mixed hiring signals

An uncertain job market awaits the Lake County area in the final months of 1995, according to the latest Employment Outlook Survey on business staffing plans for October, November and December, released by Manpower Inc.

Chuck Bartels of Manpower stated, "Among companies we interviewed, 13 percent say they will add to their payrolls here, another 13 percent intend reductions, and 68% don't think any adjustments will be likely. Also, 6 percent haven't finalized their plans."

Bartels noted that fourth quarter results can be more strongly affected by seasonal conditions than for other periods, with companies staffing up for the holidays and other industries cutting back. "Last fall, 27 percent expected to increase personnel and 13 percent said decreases were in order. Three months ago, 29 percent foresaw more hiring, while 3 percent thought workforce levels would lessen."

Employment prospects appear most promising this fall in wholesale/retail trade and education.

Staff cutbacks are projected in transportation/public utilities and durable goods manufacturing, while mixed foresee staff declines, 62 percent will remain at the current level and 3 percent are not yet certain.

Manpower Inc. conducts the Employment Outlook Survey on a quarterly basis. It is a measurement of employers' intentions to increase or decrease the permanent workforce, and during its 19-year history has been a significant indicator of employment trends.

The survey is based on telephone interviews with more than 15,000 public and private employers in 475 U.S. cities. Manpower Inc. is the world's largest temporary help firm, annually providing employment to 1.5 million people through more than 2,000 offices in 38 countries.

Antioch shop 'dresses up' plain garments

NEAL TUCKER
Staff Reporter

When personalizing clothing to give as gifts it so much more elegant to embroider that person's name rather than screen printing or using iron on letters. But wouldn't it be nice if you could make a design or something more special instead of just monogramming a name.

You can. "People are so thrilled they can come in and design something themselves," said Mary Kay Tointon, owner of Elite Embroidery on Main St. in downtown Antioch. Tointon says her store is the only one of its kind from Antioch to Schaumburg.

She described how customers who are looking for the richness of embroidery and the flexibility of designing something more creative than monogramming a name will come in, flip through a catalog and pick their design. They pick out a plain garment in stock or one they have brought in and are delighted to see the finished product on the clothing of their choice.

The embroidering machines are computer-guided but it is not as simple as popping in disk and letting the needle fly. Each stitch has to be entered into the computer. But Tointon says the finished product, which uses a high quality rayon thread, is worth the effort.

What is surprising about the process is it doesn't cost a lot of money to get the benefits of an embroidered pattern. Tointon said her minimum charge is $7.50 and that is exactly what most of her jobs are. Unlike screen printing, adding more colors does not mean a higher cost.

Tointon actually got into the embroidery business as part of another business she owned. In the sporting goods business she operated for 12 years, she offered simple monogramming and iron on lettering along with all the traditional hard lines of a sporting goods store. As her lettering business grew, she decided to sell her hard goods line a year ago, keep the soft lines and expand the embroidery business to enable her to do more dramatic designing and higher volume.

But she just doesn't want to become too big so her shop loses its quaintness. The personal service she can now give to her customers is key to what she wants for a business in Antioch.

"I don't want to handle orders of 1,000 pieces due in three days. I don't want to become a factory," she said.

Tointon does expect her shop to grow naturally as long as she maintains proper control. She is See EMBROIDERY page C2

Cargo increase spurs expansion at Mitchell Airport

General Mitchell International Airport is nearing completion of a major expansion of its air cargo ramp.

The 14,400 square yard apron expansion is a result of steady growth in demand for air cargo service at the metropolitan airport, which serves southeastern Wisconsin and northern Illinois. The project will provide Mitchell with a total of 105,300 square yards of cargo ramp, and increased cargo processing capabilities.

"Air freight through Mitchell International has been growing dramatically," said Barry Bateman, airport director. "Between 1984 and 1994 we saw a 268 percent increase. In 1994, more than 180 million pounds of air cargo and 49 million pounds of air freight were processed at Mitchell."

Two carriers, Burlington Air Express, Inc. and Midwest Express Airlines, will move their cargo operations to the new area.

Other cargo services at Mitchell include Airborne Express, American Eagle, America West Airlines, C.F. Emery Worldwide, Cargo Air, Continental Airlines, Delta Air Lines, Federal Express, Northwest Airlines, TWA, United Airlines, United Parcel Service and US Air.

In the past ten years, more than $100 million has been invested in the expansion and updating of Mitchell International Airport.

In 1989, a new 71,400 square foot cargo processing building was constructed at the airport.

In 1993, Milwaukee County officials adopted a master plan providing for the construction of a third parallel runway needed to accommodate aviation demand, adding important airport capacity to the Chicago/Milwaukee metroplex.

Milwaukee's Mitchell International Airport will be the eighth fastest growing airport in the country over the next decade, according to Federal Aviation Administration projections. In 1994, Mitchell Airport served 5.3 million passengers, a 17 percent increase over 1993.

BUSINESS BRIEF

Home Buyers Seminar offered

SCHAUMBURG—The Custom Home Builders Council of the Home Builders Association of Greater Chicago (HBAGC) is sponsoring a custom home buyers seminar on Sept. 26, at the Schaumburg Marriott. Doors will open at 7 p.m. The two hour seminar will cover topics such as "How to Select Your Builder," "Site Selection," "Financing Options," and "Design and Construction of Custom Homes." Conducting the seminar is Thomas A. Stephani, president of Custom Construction Concepts, Inc. Product and service displays will be featured for attendees. "This seminar gives people all the tools they need to ensure a successful, positive custom home building experience," said Mark Perlman, chairman of the Custom Home Builders Council and President of Empeco, Inc. There is no charge for the seminar; however, reservations are required. Call 627-7592 for information and reservations.

already a source for wholesale embroidery, which includes work done for a cheerleading goods company.

Her retail business is also growing steadily. She still does the sports team embroidering and simple name monogramming, but she is adding more and more corporate work, emblazoning company logos on shirts and hats. Inside the store, she will be adding a craft line that includes recipe books and little bags. Her baby line has already done well and will be growing by consumer demand.

She also hopes to deal more with appliqué, which involves embroidery mixed colorful designs of cloth patches. Those designs are beginning to become quite fashionable and can dress up a plain garment into a very attractive piece of clothing.

INVESTMENT TRENDS

Noah A. Seldenberg,
Investment Representative of Edward D. Jones & Co.

Don't put off investing for tomorrow

John Smith plans to begin investing after he saves up a bunch of cash and when conditions are "just right."

Jane Doe, on the other hand, invests $50 every month in a mutual fund that meets her objectives for safety and growth.

Who has a better chance of building up a large nest egg?

Investing does not require expert timing or big sums of cash. Too often, individuals put off beginning an investment program, thinking they need to accumulate a large initial deposit and invest it at just the right time. On the contrary, systematically investing small sums of money on a regular basis through all financial conditions often provides better results than a large, one-time investment.

To illustrate the long-term benefits of systematic investing, let's assume an individual invested $2,000 in the Standard & Poor's 500 Index on his birthday every year from 1964 to 1994. These 30 systematic annual deposits, totaling $60,000, grew to $470,461 — nearly eight times the amount invested.

Although past results do not guarantee future performance, illustrations like this focus not only on the value of systematic investing, but also on the benefits of a long-term approach. During the 30-year period in our example, many events occurred to discourage investing: civil rights issues, Vietnam, trade deficits, oil crises, Watergate, a falling dollar, skyrocketing inflation and interest rates, and a stock market crash. There were roughly 8,000 investing days in that period, yet the market made most of its gains in only 90 days. Knowing which 90 days to be in the market, though, would have been virtually impossible. Long-term investors who stayed in the market through all conditions would have been rewarded.

Yet another example reinforces the value of long-term investing. A study by Ibbotson Associates, a firm well-respected for its statistical data on the securities market, showed that during the 69-year period from year-end 1925 through 1994, larger company stocks averaged annual returns of 10.2 percent, and smaller companies averaged 12.2 percent. While short-term returns were probably a lot lower during certain periods of those years, overall, stocks provided attractive returns for investors who stuck with them for the long term.

Trying to save up for one big investment, and attempting to predict the perfect time to invest for the short term, can be extremely difficult. On the other hand, starting now with smaller amounts is not only easier, it can be much more rewarding.

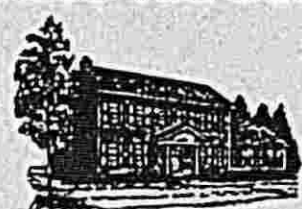

Get ready to start a business

Individuals about to start a business will learn skills necessary to makeover 40 business start-up decisions by attending College of Lake County's small business development certificate program, "The Road to Business Success." The 10-week training program will be held from 6:30 to 10 p.m. on Mondays beginning Sept. 19 in Room C003 at the Grayslake campus, 19351 W. Washington St.

Taught by successful entrepreneurs and business professionals, the program will cover such topics as market research, business planning, record keeping, sales strategies, finances, marketing, taxes and small business management.

The cost is $275. To register, call 223-3633. MasterCard, Visa, Discover and American Express are accepted.

MURPHY ON REAL ESTATE

Terri Murphy

The market over 55 is growing

According to a news release by Dearborn Publishing for a just-released new book, the fastest growing market will be the aging baby boomers, claiming that in 15 years one in every five Americans will be over 65 years old.

John Tuccillo, Ph.D. is the chief economist for the National Assn. of Realtors. In his book, "Targeting the Over 55 Client: Your Guide to Today's Fastest Growing Market," Tuccillo combines his expertise with Realtors Buddy and Betsy West to profile their 30 years' experience to show just how to address the country's fastest growing population. The book describes the "how-to's" for the best way a real estate agent can service this specific buying and selling niche. The authors illuminate several points with real life anecdotes, shattering myths surrounding seasoned sellers and exploding worries and fears so a professional can better serve the senior's individual needs.

"Targeting the Over 55 Client" can help the agent familiarize the senior clients with modern transactions, fair housing laws and new technology. The text is designed to help educate this special group by defining and simplifying terms and preparing seniors for the particulars when a home is bought and sold in today's market.

In many cases the senior is not familiar with how an agency works to market and sell their home. The Tuccillo/West team encourages an agent to prepare the over-65 client by taking several steps to make the process more comfortable, including:

- Instructing the agent to make multiple personal visits to establish a relationship;
- Encouraging the creation of a support team for the clients which include trusted family members, friends and professionals; and

- In-depth interviewing with the senior to understand the best possible solution to their particular needs and wants in a real estate transaction.

If you are over 65 years old and thinking about selling or buying a home, consider interviewing your agent about some of the points listed here to learn some of the lessons and techniques this book has to offer. Issues that may need to be addressed are:

- Personal comfort level of the senior with the sometimes radical change in living arrangements;
- Incorporating a real estate attorney to handle the counseling and transfer of the property; and
- The disposition of furniture and excess personal belongings. In many cases the client is not clear on how to liquidate some of the personal belongings that will no longer be necessary if moving to smaller quarters. An agent may be able to offer the names of services that will both appraise and liquidate some of these items. Often times an unaware senior seller will give away or throw away highly valuable items in an effort to simplify the transition, or out of a high generosity level. Determining comfort levels of understanding about the trauma of moving is another strong issue to clarify prior to marketing.

Griefnotes

How can I prevent difficulties from grief?

Many who confront grief for the first time are surprised at the intensity of their feelings. Grief is most often associated with the death of a loved one but it can also result from divorce, loss of bodily function, moving or from a child growing up and leaving home. Because grief is poorly understood, those who have not experienced it personally can be poor helpers. By learning about grief ahead of time we can more capably assist friends in their time of need and can more readily understand the intensity of feelings when death affects our families. Take time to read and inquire about grief and learn ways to assist those in need of support.

AN ORDINANCE ANNEXING CERTAIN SURROUNDED TERRITORY CONTIGUOUS TO THE VILLAGE OF GRAYSLAKE AND ESTABLISHING ZONING THEREOF

WHEREAS, the Village of Grayslake is a municipal corporation located in Lake County, Illinois; and

WHEREAS, the Village of Grayslake desires to annex certain unincorporated territory (the "Subject Territory") in Lake County; and

WHEREAS, the Subject Territory consists of less than 60 acres of real property contiguous to the Village of Grayslake; and

WHEREAS, the Village of Grayslake provides no fire protection or library services; and

WHEREAS, the Village of Grayslake has given timely and appropriate notice to the public by publication in the Pioneer Press, a newspaper of general circulation in the Subject Territory; and

WHEREAS, the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Grayslake, Lake County, Illinois find it to be in the best interests of the Village that the Subject Territory be annexed to the Village;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED, by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Grayslake, Lake County, Illinois, as follows:

Section 1. The foregoing recitals are hereby incorporated herein as if fully set forth.

Section 2. Real Estate Annexed. The Village of Grayslake, pursuant to Section 7-1-13 of the Illinois Municipal Code, 65 ILCS 5/7-1-13 (1994), hereby annexes the Subject Territory, which is legally described on Exhibit "A" attached hereto and by this reference made a part hereof.

EXHIBIT A

PARCEL 1: That part of said west half of the northeast quarter of Section 26, described as follows: Beginning at the northeast corner of Lot 89 in Barron and Van Achen's Grayslake Subdivision of part of the west half of the northeast quarter of Section 26, Township 45 North, Range 10, east of the Third Principal Meridian, according to the plat thereof, recorded October 4, 1923, as Document 230485 in Book "M" of Plats, Page 21, thence east along the north line of said Lot 89 extended to the east 477 feet, thence south parallel to the east line of said Subdivision, 100 feet; thence east parallel to said north line, 483.3 feet to the east line of said west half of the northeast quarter of Section 26; thence south along said last mentioned east line, 400 feet; thence west parallel to said north line 960.2 feet to the east line of said Subdivision and southeast corner Lot 85 in said Barron and Van Achen's Grayslake Subdivision; thence north along the east line of said Subdivision, 500 feet to the place of beginning, in Lake County, Illinois.

PARCEL 2: That part of the west half of the northeast quarter of Section 26, Township 45 North, Range 10, east of the Third Principal Meridian, described as follows: beginning at the northeast corner of Lot 84 in Barron and Van Achen's Grayslake Subdivision according to the plat thereof recorded October 4, 1923 as Document 230485, in Book "M" of Plats, Page 21; thence east on the north line of said Lot 84 extended east, a distance of 265.00 feet; thence south, a distance of 150.00 feet, thence west, parallel with the north line of said Lot 84, a distance of 265.00 feet to the east line of the said Barron and Van Achen's Grayslake Subdivision, thence north a distance of 150.00 feet to the point of beginning in Lake County, Illinois.

PARCEL 3: The north half of the north half of the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of Section 26, Township 45 North, Range 10, east of the Third Principal Meridian, (except that part of Alderson Road as previously annexed) in Lake County, Illinois.

PARCEL 4: The south half of the north half of the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of Section 26, Township 45 North, Range 10, east of the Third Principal Meridian (except that part of Alderson Road previously annexed) in Lake County, Illinois.

Section 3. Zoning. Pursuant to Section 22.209D of the Grayslake Zoning ordinance, the Subject Territory shall be classified in the R-1 Zoning District of the Village.

Section 4. Recordation. The Village Attorney is hereby directed to cause a certified copy of this Ordinance, together with an accurate map of the Subject Territory, to be recorded with the Recorder of Deeds of Lake County, Illinois, in accordance with State law.

Section 5. Reporting. The Village Clerk shall report this annexation by serving notice of this annexation by registered or certified mail to the Clerk of Lake County, Illinois, (being the election authority having jurisdiction over the Subject Territory), and on the United States Post Office branches serving the Subject Territory within 30 days of the passage of this Ordinance, as required by law.

Section 6. Effective Date. This Ordinance shall become and be effective immediately upon its passage and approval in the manner provided by law.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q: Dear...Search: I have been 16 years with the same company in the capacity of staff accountant. Approximately three weeks ago the president of the company announced that he was selling the company and that the staff in my department was to be phased out by November 1 of this year. I obviously am in need of other employment and therefore have been sending my resumes out and interviewing wherever possible. My salary at this time is $47,000 and I have become used to living a comfortable lifestyle. I am now finding that I am having difficulty finding a position that comes close to my salary. I have run across companies that deal in the same type of business as I am knowledgeable of figuring I could basically walk right in and have no problems, but these positions are offering starting salaries which are substantially less than I am currently used to. The most recent interview I went on was for a competitor of the company I am with now, only to find that after the second interview the salary range was offering in the high 20's to low 30's. I should further mention that although I have 16 years with this company and three years of college in my field of accounting, I am non-degreed. I believe I can run circles around any graduate or advanced degreed individual for that matter. I am sure that this is why my salary is going to be a problem. What do you think I can do to convince these employers that I know my stuff? H.S. - Libertyville.

A: Dear H.S. Realize that you have been 16 years with the same company whereby you have over the years received merit increases as well as cost of living increases. This is important to recognize because one can quickly place themselves out of the market after all that time. The average person does not stay in a position nearly that long. Keep in mind that although you believe in yourself and your employer obviously has for all these years does not mean that everyone you interview with will stand up and take notice to more than your longevity. So much goes in to the hiring process these days. Corporations have strong criteria especially in high end accounting positions. In an accounting position where you want to command a higher salary and title recognition, degrees are almost always expected especially where your $47,000 salary is concerned. Your lack of degree may well be the reason that the new owners of the company are not asking you to stay on. Many companies have a "degree necessary" indicator in their job descriptions. My advice is to either set your sights on finishing up your undergraduate studies with the hope that this will help you get ahead, or this is not even an option for you (for some it is not), then you may start thinking of lowering your salary expectations until you land that golden company that will once again bring you up the salary ranks to which you have grown accustomed. They're out there! Good Luck!

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee. Letters can be sent to Nancy at 4949 Grand Ave., Gurnee, IL 60031.

PET OF THE WEEK

Bear

"Bear" is a black and cream, six year old male shepherd mix. One of our personal favorites, this attractively marked larger mid-size dog has the heart of a lamb. This big sweet boy is unusually sweet, and exceptionally gentle. Bear is in the prime of his life, and has many fine qualities. He listens well, is calm, loves people, and he positively glows when you give him attention and affection. Bear is also alert, responsive, and has had some training. Bear has an adorable way about him that reminds us of Walt Disney's "Bashful" in Snow White. We think he's irresistible, and once he gets to know you, he'll think you are too! Bear knows how to give paw and he's been waiting to give someone his heart for a full year. One of our personal favorites, Bear is waiting in Cage 59.

Cash $55 donation includes free spay/neuter, collar, tag, leash, first shots, follow-up care, and more. Orphans of the Storm is located at 2200 Riverwoods Rd., Deerfield. Hours are 11 a.m. - 5 p.m., seven days a week. Call (708) 945-0235 for further information.

NEBRASKA

2499 square foot Nebraska.
A covered front porch leads you into the vaulted entry. To the left is a built-in armoire, to the right is a huge vaulted family room. Here a combination gas/wood stove warms the entire room. A built-in entertainment center will provide hours of enjoyment for friends and family. Sliding glass doors open to a large patio, a perfect place for summer barbecues. An L-shaped hallway guides you to two good sized bedrooms. Each has a walk-in closet, vanity and plenty of windows. A full bathroom and linen storage are nearby.
The right rear corner of this remarkable plan houses the luxurious, isolated master suite. Here the many elegant features include a sitting room with window seat, vast walk-in closet, private covered porch and spacious bathroom with spa, compartmentalized toilet, linen storage, twin basins and glass block shower with built-in bench. Abutting the master suite is a small home office. Here you can finish work that is brought home or use it to keep track of household accounts on your personal computer.
The large U-shaped kitchen will surely please. Features include a cooktop grill, double ovens and appliance center. Meals can either be served in the adjoining breakfast nook or in the vaulted dining room, complete with built-in buffet.
One convenient feature that you will be glad to have is the utility room located just off the kitchen.
Here you have a pantry, washer/dryer, freezer and double sink. An added advantage is the covered porch separating the utility room/kitchen from the two-car garage. This handy arrangement allows you to bring groceries into the house without regard to the weather. A recycling center and planter box are on the porch.
For further development, an unfinished basement offers an additional 1476 square feet. 524 square feet of attic space are available for extra storage.
For a study kit of the NEBRASKA (334-240), send $10.00, to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307-LP60, Eugene, OR 97402 (Be sure to specify plan name & number). For a collection of plan books featuring our most popular home plans, send $20 to Landmark.

Pear-Apple Crisp

- 4 medium apples
- 4 medium pears
- 1 Tbl. white sugar or brown sugar
- 1 to 2 tsp. lemon juice

Preheat the oven to 400 degrees. Peel the fruit and slice it thinly. Toss it with the sugar and lemon juice; then lay it in a 9- or 10-inch pie plate, or similarly sized earthenware or porcelain gratin dish. Cover the fruit with the crisp topping and bake it for 30 minutes, or until the top is nicely browned and the apples are cooked. Serve with cream whisked just enough to thicken it slightly, and flavored, if you like, with amaretto, or with the Cinnamon Creme Anglaise.

Libertyville Tennis Club opens new fitness center

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

One of Chicagoland's premiere tennis clubs, the Libertyville Tennis and Fitness Club, just became a little more exclusive.

The club expanded its facilities to include 25 pieces of cardio-vascular equipment, 17 pieces of MedX strength-training equipment, free weights, a 2,000 square-foot aerobics floor and a half-court basketball court.

"We really changed our focus. We're a full-blown multi-purpose club now," said owner Steve Wild, who purchased the club in 1986.

Built in 1968, the club experienced some tough times and nearly fell to ruin before Wild and his brother Andy bought and rescued the club. They have since refurbished the main facility and renovated the indoor and outdoor tennis courts. The latest $800,000 investment included improving the lockerrooms and adding the new fitness center.

"It's the most extensive remodeling we've ever done," Wild said.

Members using the cardio-vascular equipment will be surrounded by a "Cardio Theater," Wild said. The training area includes eight television sets and numerous stereos that members can tune into while they work out.

Carmel to face key contest

A chance to grab an opportunity for playoff contention will be at hand when Carmel High's football team travels to Chicago to take on St. Patrick Sept. 16.

Carmel (2-1, 1-1 East Suburban Catholic Conference) dropped its first game of the year with a 12-7 loss at Marian Catholic in Chicago Heights on Friday. The hosts winning score came with 65 seconds left.

After a scoreless first half, Kevin Burris broke free for a 42-yard third quarter TD. Luke Chozazy added the extra point for a 7-6 Carmel lead.

That stood until a two-minute drive ended with Adam Washington catching a 20-yard TD pass from Tom Dranger.

Carmel will face a multifaceted attack from the Shamrocks in the game at Hanson Stadium. Kickoff is set for 8 p.m.

"The defense took a big step forward against Crystal Lake South and this was against a champion. If we could have kept our defense off the field some of the fourth quarter, we would have won," Fitzgibbons said.

Linebacker Steve Golebiowski again led the way. He calls the signals on defense. Burris gained 129 yards in his best game to date. The transfer from Round Lake may take the pressure off Ruben Rivera.

"We can't rely on Ruben to break a big gainer," Fitzgibbons said.

The Corsairs were without Mike Graham, sidelined for the year with an injury.

Veteran NFL ref predicts football financial future

Dallas owner disrupting 'apple cart'

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

With 300 games under his belt, NFL referee Paul Baetz has seen football change dramatically and expects it to evolve more as owners scramble to make more profits.

In comparison to other professional sports such as basketball, hockey and baseball, one thing is for certain, though: "We have labor peace in our game until 1999," said Baetz, referring to last year's labor agreement between players and owners. Baetz made his comments and economic predictions of the NFL during a power breakfast sponsored by the Lake County Chamber of Commerce.

Unlike other sports, football owners can predict their profits, Baetz said. NFL owners share equally all television profits, split ticket sales (60 percent for the home team and 40 percent for the away team), and share profits from the sale of NFL-licensed products, such as hats, sweat-shirts, jackets, etc.

The key in the formula, Baetz stressed, is revenue sharing.

"There wouldn't be a Kansas City Chiefs and there wouldn't be a Cincinnati Bengals without revenue sharing," Baetz said.

In baseball, for example, small-market teams like Milwaukee, Seattle and Pittsburgh have difficulty maintaining television profits as compared to teams in New York and Chicago. In football, all television profits are shared equally among the 30 teams.

Baetz, however, noted that owners are aggressively seeking new ways to increase their profit margins among the revenue-sharing system.

One way includes selling personal seating licenses for season tickets. The expansion teams in Charlotte, N.C., and Jacksonville,

— Paul Baetz
NFL referee

Fla., introduced the idea in which season-ticket holders have to pay a license in addition to paying for the season tickets.

"It's liking paying for the privilege of buying season tickets. There is more demand for those season seats than there is supply," Baetz said. "Believe me, Mike McCaskey (of the Chicago Bears) and every other owner is going to be selling personal seating licenses."

Along the same lines, Baetz believes season-ticket holders will be charged for maintenance fees. "Believe me, it's happening," he said.

He also thinks there will be more expansion teams. The Carolinas and Jacksonville entered the league this year. Also, the Los Angeles Rams moved to St. Louis and the Los Angeles Raiders returned to Oakland.

"Believe me, in the next two years there will be at least one or two teams in Los Angeles," Baetz said.

The one area where owners do not have to share profits is the selling of luxury boxes. More teams, he said, will be looking to build new stadiums with luxury boxes or add more luxury boxes to their current stadiums.

He pointed to Oakland Raiders owner Al Davis, who added 125 luxury boxes at a cost of $85,000 per box when he returned to Oakland. "That's more than $10 million a year in profits," Baetz said.

The rise of pay television will also play a bigger role. He foresees the Super Bowl being offered on pay-TV much like prize boxing matches are watched such as the Mike Tyson-Peter McNeeley fight.

"The biggest way the NFL will accrue revenue in the future is pay-TV," Baetz noted.

Using simple computation, Baetz pointed out:

"Fifty million people watch the Super Bowl, and at a fee of $40 per person to watch the Super Bowl, that's $2 billion for one game," Baetz said. "Don't think these owners don't know these figures—because they do."

He also said the increased value of franchises is another way owners increase their profits. For example, the Philadelphia Eagles sold for $200 million this year. Nine years ago, the team was worth $65 million. Baetz said more and more teams could be sold in the near future.

Finally, the other big money maker is sports licensing which produced more than $2.8 billion in revenue last year.

"Anything sold with an NFL logo or a team logo on it is shared 30 ways," Baetz said.

Sports licensing is a main grievance among some owners. Jerry Jones of the Dallas Cowboys, for example, believes more people buy Dallas Cowboys products than any other team, and he wants a bigger share of the profits.

In protest to the revenue-sharing system, Jones does not permit any of his coaches to wear anything with the Dallas Cowboys or NFL logo. He is also seeking a separate agreement with the Nike company to make Dallas products exclusively.

"Jerry Jones is upsetting the apple cart. He has created a lot of enemies with the owners," Baetz said.

In Baetz's mind, "The real success of the NFL is revenue sharing."

Harrison leads CLC spikers as league battles begin

Those were the ingredients the College of Lake County women's volleyball returned with following a split of four matches at Madison Tech.

The Lancers lost to the home team 15-13, 6-15 and 15-9 and Sauk Valley 15-5, 15-9.

Wins came over Waubesa 15-12 and 15-11 and Richland, Wis. in a three-game battle 15-12, 12-15, 15-7.

Leading the Lancers in the early going is Stacey Harrison. The Carmel High graduate was 27-of-33 attack with 11 kills. Setting she was 127-of-137 with 30 assists.

"She did a good job setting the ball for us.

We ran a 6-2 offense. She would rather play defense and hit but she is an all around athlete," CLC Coach Sue Garcia said.

'I would like to finish in the top two or three in the conference.'

—Sue Garcia
CLC volleyball coach

Harrison is the only Lancer to start last year and the year's experience has really helped, Garcia said.

Harrison was 39-of-44 with 26 points and 2 aces in serving.

Shannon Davis contributed 43-of-49 attack with 34 points and 10 aces in serves. "She was not with us for the Kansas trip. She needs to get back in the groove of setting," Garcia said.

Carrie Curtis, an Antioch graduate, was 55-of-66 attack with 13 kills. "She was struggling the first week, but she is more at ease now," Garcia said.

Jenny VosBurgh, a Mundelein High grad, was 30-of-39 with 11 kills and had 6 blocks.

The Lancers are back in tournament action this weekend at Muskegon, MI. Oakton visits Grayslake campus for a Skyway Conference battle at 5 p.m. Sept. 19.

"I would like to finish in the top two or three in conference," Garcia said.

Families enjoy competitive aspects of Condell Distance Classic

Although the Condell Distance Classic (CDC) is a drawing card for runners who are very intent on the competitive aspect of their sport, the popular local event, now in its 19th year, proves to be a very special activity for area families. And, race officials anticipate a large number of families to turn out for the event set for Sunday, Sept. 17 at the Condell Day Center for Intergenerational Care, 700 Garfield Ave., Libertyville.

One mother noted, "There's not too many places a family can go for $5 a person (price of the Lakeland Newspapers One Mile), enjoy a morning in the fresh air, receive a T-shirt, participate in free kids' activities, and have breakfast, too!"

Race Coordinator Donna Zradicka said that race officials see many of the same families returning year after year. "Most families register for the Lakeland Newspapers One Mile or the Met Life 5K. We have seen some competitors start out in the One Mile and as they get older, move into the other races," she said.

The CDC includes three events: the Lakeland Newspapers One Mile, the Met Life 5K Run/Walk, and the Condell Distance Classic, the 10K.

As registration in person continues this week from 9 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. through Friday and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday, in Condell's Public Relations Department located near the 303 Cleveland Ave. entrance, at the back of the hospital, race officials will be watching to see whether many of the families who participated in last year's CDC will be returning this year. They'll be curious to see if members of the Peterson family of Libertyville and Harvard will be running again. While Carl A. Peterson, 83 years old of Harvard, was entered in the Lakeland Newspapers One Mile, five other family members were in the Met Life 5K Run/Walk including Roger and Jeff Peterson of Libertyville and Mark, Avery and Mallory of Harvard.

They'll be watching for the Oakleys - Ann E. and Walter Oakley, Danielle and Jessica of Libertyville; Jane and Shawn Oakley of Grayslake, and from Gurnee, Alissa Oakley. And the six members of the Cappert family, Gerald and Sheryl and kids, Jason, Jeff, Jim, and Stephanie, of Lake Villa. Will they be running? Probably!

Then there are the Bauernsmiths, Jim, Holly, Cory, Ian and Kris, of Mundelein or the Frye family, Dale and Susan and children Bradley, Jeffrey and Shawn, from Spring Grove - officials hope to see them there.

The CDC will be offering a lot for families to do. Pre-race warm-up will be held from 7:30 to 8:45 a.m. Physical therapists from Condell's Rehabilitation Services will lead registrants in proper exercises and stretching. They will also provide cool-down exercises from 9:45 to 10:30 a.m. There will also be free Kids Kamp activities for children, ages five to 10 years old, held from 9 to 10:30 a.m.

Condell's 1995 co-sponsors are MetLife Resources™, Hollister™, Lakeland Newspapers, Vogue Printers, and Centre Club, the medical center's fitness complex.

CASE PAPER is a patron. Other contributors are Baking Bread; Centre Sports Shoppe; Edwardo's Natural Pizza; Marathon Sportswear; O'Tarpey's Rental Service; Pepsi-Cola General Bottlers, Inc.; and Sparkling Spring Water Company.

The morning's events also include the Runners' Breakfast, compliments of Condell Medical Center and friends, which highlights post-race activities, CDC T-shirts to the first 1200 registrants to pick up their race packets, and random drawing prizes throughout the awards ceremony.

Competitors in the 10K enter by CARA (Chicago Area Runners Association) age groups ranging from 14 years and under to 70 years and over. Men, 200 lbs. plus, and women, 155 lbs., may run in the Clydesdale division instead of their age category.

Prizes will be awarded to registered winners in the various categories. The first 10K male and female overall will each receive a Human Performance Package, provided by Condell's Medical Center Health Institute. This comprehensive fitness analysis includes exercise testing, blood work, maximal oxygen uptake, body fat and nutrition evaluation.

Other 10K prizes will be presented to the first male and female from Lake County; the first three male and female finishers in each age group; the first three male and female Masters (runners 40 years of age and over); and the oldest registered male and female finishers.

The Met Life 5K Run/Walk is also based on the CARA 5-year age classes. Commemorative mugs will be awarded to the first two male and female finishers in each age class with prizes to the first overall male and female finishers. Mugs will also be presented to the first five overall male and female finishers in the Lakeland Newspapers One Mile Run and ribbons will be presented to all finishers.

Individual 10K and 5K computerized result cards will be available immediately after the race. One milers will be asked to note their time on the display clock. Race T-shirt availability will be determined by packet pickup.

To register, call Condell's Department of Public Relations and Marketing at 362-2905, ext. 5275.

Chris Sagnant, 11, of Libertyville celebrates victory in last year's Condell Distance Classic.

"It's really a unique concept," Wild said. "The whole idea is that you want to engage the mind while you are exercising to remove you from the monotony of running on the treadmill."

Heart-rate monitors will also be available so people can achieve the maximum exercise for their hearts, Wild said.

'It's really a unique concept. The whole idea is that you want to engage the mind while you are exercising to remove you from the monotony of running on the treadmill.'

—Steve Wild
Libertyville Tennis Club owner

A mini-massage parlor staffed by four massage therapists will also be available.

A conference room was added so the club could sponsor seminars and presentations on strength training, nutrition and aerobics. Twelve to 14 different aerobics classes will be offered.

The basketball court will be generally open for member use. "Hopefully, we'd like to do some three-on-three tournaments," Wild said.

The tennis club will continue giving lessons from some of the top-named tennis players in the country, such as Wild's stepdaughter Linda Harvey Wild, who just competed in the U.S. Open and was ranked 32nd in the world last year.

The Libertyville Tennis and Fitness Club will also continue holding regional and national tennis tournaments including a junior national event in October for 14, 16 and 18-year-olds. Participants will play as a team by competing in two singles matches and a doubles match.

"It will be a pilot event that the USTA will be watching closely," Wild said. "It really is designed to let the kids play more than they normally would."

On Nov. 19, Wild said the Libertyville Tennis and Fitness Club will hold its official grand opening.
